

COUNCIL APPROVED LICENCE FOR NURSING TYPE HOME

A special meeting of Madoc Village Council was held last Friday afternoon when council granted a nursing home licence to Mr. R. P. Kelly, subject to the approval of the local Medical Officer of Health, Dr. S. R. Beatty.

Mr. Kelly has since informed the Review that Dr. Beatty inspected the home on Monday and had approved it for a nursing type home licence.

Provincial authorities will also inspect the home before granting a provincial licence, Mr. Kelly said. Mrs. Gordon, a registered nurse, of Toronto and formerly of Madoc, has been engaged and Mr. Kelly plans to open the home about the end of February.

OUR HIGH SCHOOL

Here we are in February already with the school year over half gone! Yes, verily, tempus fugit! And already word has been received as to the dates of the Grade XII Departmental exams in Latin and Technical subjects early in June. So the show must go on. And speaking of shows Mr. Graves is building up his cast for the operetta. This is an innovation for our school. Having heard Mr. Graves' choir at the Christmas assembly, we have had our appetites whetted, and are quite looking forward to his operetta.

The sympathy of staff and students goes to Miss Norma Arnett who was bereaved by the sudden death of her father in Sudbury last Friday.

This Friday is Professional Development Day for all the teachers in O.S.T.F. District 23. Our Principal, Miss West, is President of the District and with her committee has been arranging the day's program. The majority of the teachers will be meeting in Belleville but others are going farther afield. The Commercial teachers are going to Watertown and the Latin and French teachers are spending the day in Syracuse observing classes in several schools there. The Occupations teachers are off to Toronto, Physical Ed. to Kingston, Technical to Ottawa, to mention some. And of course, for all students a HOLIDAY!

This Monday Grades 9D, 9E, 10D and 10E started their second course in Shops. Last Friday they wrote final exams in their first course.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. MacCrimmon, P.S. Inspector, Mrs. McCoy of the Township P.S., Mr. Gillies of Marmora, Mr. Kingston of Tweed, Mr. E. Fleming of Stirling and Mr. Murphy of Madoc visited the Commercial, Technical and Occupations departments of our school, seeing at first hand what is involved in the various courses given here, and to be better able to advise their students of Grade VIII in their Guidance work. They talked with their former students whom they had helped to choose their courses and were very pleased to find that these students were happy in the courses chosen. At the close of the afternoon, they met with Miss West in Mrs. Fleming's classroom for discussion. Here they were served with light refreshments by Mrs. Fleming and her girls.

Mr. Voss of the National Employment, Belleville, spoke to the students of the Occupations classes, and will return at a later date for individual interviews concerning employment.

The Registrar of Brock University will be with us on Thursday. Mr. Bates of Guelph, Liaison officer of Secondary Schools, will be meeting with the students of XII and XIII on Wednesday.

We have noticed several of the girls wearing very sharp white cardigans with the school colours of gold and black. These were purchased through the Student Council. The boys will be getting school jackets later, we hear.

Only a few more days before the "At Home." Tickets go on sale at noon on Wednesday. So boys, get busy!

Richard MacKenzie reporting on the Boys' Sports—Last Tuesday the Bantams lost to Nicholson by a score of 37 - 32. Bailey and DeButte were the two top scorers; Bailey having ten and DeButte having eight.

The Madoc Juniors won 60 - 46 even though Blue, Jackson and Parauk were fouled out in the first half. Donaldson was top scorer with 29 points and MacKenzie second with 12.

A week from yesterday the teams played in Norwood. The Juniors lost 39 - 25, Donaldson and Blue being the top scorers.

Vicki McNab reports that last night Madoc Senior Girls edged out Nicholson 31 - 30 at Nicholson in a very exciting game. Bonnie Cassidy was top scorer for Madoc. In the Junior game Madoc won with a score of 13 - 9. Sharon Smith was the top scorer for Madoc Juniors. Next game, Monday night. Congratulations girls! Madoc High School last week was the setting for one of the most exciting games ever played in Madoc. O.S.D. girls came out on top with a very small margin, 35 - 33. Madoc Juniors lost their bout by a score of 24 - 17.

WINTER FROLIC FINANCIAL SUCCESS

In spite of the most unfavourable weather of the season, the winter frolic at Moira Lake on Sunday, sponsored by the Madoc Firemen, was a financial success. It was cold, it snowed, it blew and drifted, and although it was the worst day of the winter a fair crowd turned out for the event with the powered sleigh-riding machines doing a rushing business throughout the afternoon. A huge bonfire kept those in attendance from freezing and the refreshment booth was well patronized with all hot dogs, hamburgers and coffee available being sold.

The holder of the winning ticket on the draw to help defray expenses was Dr. Mullin.

If the weather is suitable the frolic will be held again this Sunday, February 6th.

UNEXPECTED TRIP TO FLORIDA

Charlie Derry, local garage operator, John McCann, Madoc Village Police Chief, and Jack Francis had an unexpected trip to Tallahassee, Florida, this week.

It appears that Mr. Derry sold a new car and received a cheque in payment. The cheque couldn't be cashed and the purchaser could not be located. Police were notified and the car was found in Tallahassee where it was being offered for sale at a considerably reduced price by the purchaser who was later arrested and held by police for extradition.

The party could not obtain a direct flight and left on Tuesday from Madoc, staying overnight in New York, then via plane to Atlanta, Georgia, transferring to another plane to Tallahassee.

They expect to pick up the car and bring it and the purchaser back to Madoc.

OVER $80,000 TO BE SPENT AT ELDORADO FACTORY

Work is progressing on an extension to the Eldorado Cheese and Butter Co-operative factory on No. 62 highway at Eldorado. An addition to the present building 57 x 40 feet and a small unloading addition 18 x 32 feet is expected to be completed about April 1st. The addition will give an additional 800 square feet in the make room while the receiving room will have 1,500 square feet of space. The building at present is 84 by 72 feet and can handle 50,000 pounds of milk per day. With the new addition the factory will be able to handle 96,000 pounds of milk daily. The contract for the new addition is $35,000 and the contractor is Wilfred Spencer of Springbrook. Mr. Spencer has had considerable experience in building cheese factories in various parts of the county and drew up the plans for the Eldorado addition.

New equipment which includes two new 16,000-pound vats, a clarifier, boiler and separator, is expected to cost another $47,000.

Plans call for the closing of the Oak Leaf factory at Cooper and the Madoc factory at Queensboro with patrons from these places sending their milk to Eldorado. In all there will be over 100 patrons sending their milk to Eldorado during 1966.

DEAR DORIS

advice from
Doris Clark

Mother At School

DEAR DORIS — I have a wonderful husband and a baby a year and a half. And I want to go back to school. I have always regretted never finishing high school and getting a vocation. What if I just had to find work, at some later time?

There is an older woman who would come to live with us and take care of Timmie for the 10 months. However if my absence every day would have a harmful effect on him I would not consider it. I could never live with the fact that I had failed him to satisfy my dream.

Wanda Education

DEAR WANTS — Much depends on (1) the kind of mother-substitute your older woman would be; (2) whether you could give all necessary spare time to Timmie, when you are home; and (3) how well your constitution could stand up to the triple threat of homemaking, mothering and studying.

I have seen small children react desperately to the loss of their mother through absence at work or school. I have seen them develop skin rashes or become silent and withdrawn. Such a lack in early life can do lasting damage to a tender, budding personality.

Ever in a year or two the situation could be much better; then I'd say: "More power to you!"

DEAR DORIS — My fiancé and I are having a disagreement over one of our ushers. They have been friends for the past two years. He is a smart aleck and has a very impertinent attitude.

I dislike him and would rather not have him for an usher. His girl is going to be my bridesmaid. My fiancé says it is only right to have him.

Happy Day

DEAR HAPPY DAY — Bury the hatchet. You'll make more hard feelings by excluding him than he will with his impertinence. Have his girl friend put him on his best behavior — or else!

DEAR DORIS — My husband has been asked to be church warden and feels honored. I'm pleased, too, but the trouble is, I am the volunteer church secretary. Won't it look like a clique? I feel I should resign. People use every excuse possible to stay away from church. There must be someone else who could take on my work for a few hours every week, even though many are working mothers, and many more just can't type or handle office work.

Church Volunteer

DEAR VOLUNTEER — Don't borrow trouble. Small talk has no right to attention.

Why not broaden the circle by finding a part-time helper or two? Perhaps someone to turn out the church letter or calendar; another to be responsible for reporting on regular meetings. You'll know the ways to divide up the chores.

To resign out of hand would seem irresponsible.

DEAR DORIS — I'd like to be a social worker because I am very interested in doing things to help people. But now mother says this takes a university education. Is that right?

Loaves People

DEAR LOVES — "Fraid so. Six years, to be exact. But for the girl or boy who finds people more exciting than anybody, every minute is worth it.

You learn what makes people tick; and how to help them adjust their works (and personalities) to the tempo (and temper) of life around them. Quite an assignment!

Send me ten cents and your name and address on a stamped envelope, for my leaflet: "Is Social Work the Career For You?"

To Backward About Coming Forward — Go ahead. Speak first when you meet him on the street. Any gentleman waits for the lady to acknowledge him before he presumes on acquaintance. (And let me whisper in your ear that your Bobbie is shy, but will gradually gain more poise if you help him!)

Confidential to Faith and Hope — Father Murphy of Rescue Incorporated (an organization now operating in several American cities to prevent suicides) says he thanks God for psychiatry. He feels there should be a continuing dialogue between science and religion so that each may help the other in the solving of human problems. I'm glad they have both helped you.

Romance of Time and Motion

There is an echo of construction on Ile Notre Dame these days as the complex of cells representing Canadian National's pavilion for Expo 67 progresses. Chosen as the railway's part in Expo 67, emphasis is on entertaining the thousands of exhibition visitors it is anticipated will march beneath its jewel-like domes. "Butt," said C. A. Harris, director of CN public relations, "its objective is also to provoke thought and excite the imagination."

The pavilion's unusual design is completely in tune with our rapidly advancing industrial image and it will feature the twin theme of Time and Motion. The Time exhibit will be made up of a series of animated story-telling devices, which along with sound effects and mood lighting, will be controlled by an automatic programmer. Just about everything inside the exhibit cells will move and the visitor will be almost imperceptibly escorted through the cells by the sequence of action and the changing accents of the lighting and sound effects.

There are nine individual cells forming the complex of the pavilion. They resemble large cut gems 24 feet across at their widest part and of varying heights, the highest of which is 50 feet. These provide the walk-through exhibit space and are raised from the ground to provide a shelter for those visitors waiting to enter the theatre, which will be the largest section of the pavilion.

I am particularly impressed by the fact that wheel chair visitors will be able to enjoy this imaginative display. They will be able to enter this area, follow the crowds in the Time sequence and enjoy Motion, a projection of film in the 200 seat theatre, then exit easily onto a thoroughfare. This is something few designers of exhibition pavilions think about. Many pavilions in past exhibitions, on such a large scale as Expo 67, are beyond the pleasure of persons who are unable to cope with entrances and exits designed for visual excitement rather than practical mobility.

Man and His World, the theme of Expo 67, inspired CN to choose the twin theme. It reflects our constant awareness of time and motion which are of such universal interest these days. These are also the elements controlling CN's day in, day out role of moving men, material and messages.

Storyline consultant for this project was Ross McLean who will be remembered for his imaginative TV productions, while the architectural consultants and the architects are well known Canadian firms as are the consultants for the motion picture.

TO REQUEST A COLLEGE OF APPLIED SCIENCE IN BAY OF QUINTE AREA

The Counties of Hastings, Northumberland and Durham, Prince Edward, the City of Belleville and the Town of Trenton have unanimously endorsed a brief requesting that a College of Applied Arts and Technology be located in the Bay of Quinte area.

The final meeting of representatives of these municipalities was held last week in Belleville and the brief to be presented was reviewed and approved. Lennox and Addington is likely to endorse the same brief.

Almost all the municipalities represented had previously submitted individual requests for such an institution but they decided that there was more chance for success by uniting and seeking its location at a site that would serve all of them.

It is expected the newly formed Council of Regents for Colleges of Applied Arts and Technology will be meeting shortly to develop plans for these schools.

Some impressive information has been assembled by the Committee to support their request. For example,

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH HELD VESTRY MEETING

The 101st annual vestry meeting of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church was held on Monday, January 24th with 21 members in attendance. Rev. James H. Thompson, chairman of the meeting opened with prayer. Mrs. Alf Lavender was re-appointed as vestry clerk.

The treasurer, Miss Luella Phillips, presented the financial statement which showed receipts doubled within the last three years. Receipts in the general church account showed $7,640 and expenses $7,132. An increase has been made in the envelope scheme. The parish loan has been lowered by $950.

Mrs. Velma Carman, president of the Woman's Auxiliary branch, gave her report of the year's activities. Receipts showed that over $1,000 had been raised to assist in parish expenses.

Mrs. Gwen Danford, president of St. John's Guild, presented her report and financial statement, showing receipts of $418 for the year.

Mrs. Joan Reynolds, superintendent of the Church School, gave a report on the state of the Sunday School and its finances.

Mrs. Kathleen Thompson, Junior Auxiliary leader, gave her report for 1965.

Mr. William Hart, treasurer of the new rectory fund, reported that nearly $1,000 had been received in the first appeal for this project. The sum of $500, had been sent to Synod office as the first payment on the loan.

In the Rector's report, he remarked on the generous support of parishioners on the purchase of a new rectory which now gives adequate accommodation and on the centennial celebrations of the church which included a service of Rogationtide on the farm of Mrs. J. B. Aylsworth. During the year the Madoc Masonic Lodge paraded to the Church, the Bishop of Ontario celebrated the Communion service and the service of confirmation, and past clergy of the parish made visits.

The Rev. Thompson reported he made 465 visits throughout the parish, conducted 68 services, three baptisms, five marriages, 11 burials and 17 other services. During the year 4,388 persons worshipped in the church. Sixty-eight visits were made to Belleville General Hospital to the total population of the area is 214,000 and the number of students enrolled in Secondary Schools totals 16,521.

In addition, there are 2,988 attending night school, 1,200 of whom are taking technical classes.

There are approximately 12,000 industrial employees with the one hundred employers listed.

Since the curricula in these proposed schools are flexible and will likely include training for agriculture, the brief also covers the farm picture. There are about 9,500 farms with a population of 41,600 in the Counties included in the brief.

It is pointed out that this area is midway between existing schools of Technology in Ottawa and Toronto. Transportation in the district is well served by a network of highways for commuters.

A number of industries in the area have written supporting the need for training schools to meet the ever increasing demand for skilled workers.

The members of the legislature representing the constituencies involved are: Norris Whitney, M.P.P.; Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P.; W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P.; Russell Rowe, M.P.P.; Alex Carruthers, M.P.P.; and have indicated their support.

A Place To Live

One of the myths to which our society pays lip service — that every Canadian family should be able to own its own home — received another blow when the interest rate on National Housing Act mortgages was raised to six and three quarter per cent.

The rate was boosted in the name of "sound fiscal policy," that strange device which government and economists apply from time to time in an attempt to match supply and demand in the money market.

Raising the rate from 6 1/2 to 6 3/4 per cent. — it was only six per cent a half dozen years ago — was a signal of the dilemma in which the government has found itself as a result of five years of rising prosperity.

In order to attract money for mortgages from the big lending institutions — which were shying away from NHA mortgages in favor of better-paying investments — the interest rate had to go up.

But what was a device to attract more lending capital and thus ensure that money would continue to be available for home building, also created another stumbling block for would-be home buyers.

Hardest hit were big city residents who have been caught not only in the high interest squeeze, but in the spiralling cost of land in the suburbs where the majority of today's home building is done.

As a result, of the salary requirements for NHA mortgages ($6,100 annually for a $15,000 mortgage with taxes of $35 a month), additional thousands of Canadians will be unable to qualify.

National Housing Act loans are made through approved lending institutions such as chartered banks, and backed up by a Crown agency, the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

But the Act has never been of much assistance to residents of smaller communities, where little of the new housing construction is undertaken. And as only new homes qualify for NHA mortgages, the measure is of no assistance to persons forced to buy older homes where on the open market, conventional mortgages cost up to seven and one quarter per cent. interest, with second mortgages even higher.

Two measures have been advocated which would give home building a new shot in the arm, and enable more Canadians to own their own homes.

The first is that NHA mortgages should be made available in the resale of older homes. The government has resisted every invitation to move into this field, which is now the monopoly of private lenders.

The second is to permit home buyers to deduct from their taxable income the interest they pay on house mortgages. The U.S. has done this for many years.

On a typical $13,000 mortgage, the home owner over the standard 25-year NHA period pays back something like $25,000. During the first five years of his mortgage, because he is carrying so much unpaid principal, the interest will eat up nearly all of his monthly payments. In five years, he will pay back something like $5,000, of which only about $1,000 will go to reducing the principal. The other $4,000 will be swallowed up by interest.

If a taxpayer were permitted to deduct mortgage interest up to $1,000 from his taxable income each year, this would mean thousands of additional Canadians would be able to entertain the idea of owning their own home.

The home building industry is one of the key barometers of the country's economic health. It not only provides a lucrative field for mortgage investment, but affects every segment of the economy from the building industry itself to forestry, durable goods manufacturing and a host of service industries.

It would be a good idea for the home building industry and real estate groups not only to call for the elimination of the 11 per cent. federal sales tax on building materials, but for extension of NHA loans to old homes as well as new, along with legislation to free Canadians from paying taxes on mortgage interest.

Until measures such as these are recognized and introduced, the whole apparatus of government, the building industry and the architectural profession will have failed to face up to the fundamental problem of shelter for Canadians.

Reynolds and Mr. Eric Omerod; property committee, wardens, Mr. Roy Brownson, Mr. A. Delange, Mr. W. Hart, Mr. Stan Kleinstuber; sidesmen chairman, Mr. Charles Warren; auditor, Mr. Bill Gordon; organist, Miss Joan Brownson.

The 1966 budget was presented and explained in full. The appropriation for the parish is $700. The amount required to operate the life of the church and to meet all the Diocesan commitments will be $7,000.

Mr. C. Warren reported 21 parish subscribers to the Ontario Churchman. It is hoped to raise this figure to 25.

All were reminded to support the Anglican World Mission and the Primate's Relief Fund. The vestry agreed that 1965, the centennial year of the church, was the best ever recorded.

Light refreshments were served by the ladies, which included a surprise birthday cake for one of its older and faithful members, Mrs. Alice Mitts.

U.C.W. OF BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERIAL HELD ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Belleville Presbyterian United Church Women opened Tuesday evening, January 25th in Bridge St. United Church, Belleville, with a greeting and prayer by the president, Mrs. J. Smith of Newburgh. The highlight of the evening was the address by Rev. Whitney Dalrymple, B.A., B.D., Missionary on furlough from Angola. He spoke of the work of the Church in Angola and illustrated same with slides. In this land of plenty it is hard to envisage the lack of facilities in Angola. This was followed by a panel on "Fellowship." The male quartette of Stirling was a very welcome addition to the evening. The evening closed with worship and fellowship hour.

Wednesday, the meeting continued with a call to Worship and greetings from Mrs. D. G. Williams, president at Bridge St. U.C.W., Belleville. Our conference president, Mrs. L. F. Richardson of Whitby, gave plenty to think about in her address "A United Church Woman - What is She?" and quoted five basis for U.C.W. - Appreciation, Evaluation, Anticipation, Dedication and Infatuation, and asked each to apply these to her own life to see how we measure up remembering "You can trace a real Christian by the lights he leaves burning." To stop rushing around and give God a chance to speak to each of us. That we are each responsible to make the world in which we live a better place. This is 1966 - What are we going to do with it? Her twelve rules for living are: (1) Live a simple life. (2) Spend less than you earn. (3) Think constructively. (4) Cultivate a yielding disposition. (5) Be grateful. (6) Rule your moods. (7) Give generously. (8) Work with right motives. (9) Be interested in others. (10) Live one day at a time. (11) Have a hobby. (12) Seek God's guidance daily. Let us build a tradition rather than to preserve one.

Mrs. M. Clancy, Literature Secretary was ably assisted by Mrs. J.

Good, left no doubt that help aids were available in plenty for assistance in all departments of our work.

Holy Communion followed with the Rev. H. Davis of Bridge St. United Church officiating. He was assisted by eight lady elders from various churches in the Presbytery.

The morning session adjourned to the basement for dinner served by the U.C.W.

The afternoon session opened with worship, and solo by Mrs. P. Miedema. Mrs. F. Smith in a few well chosen words thanked the ladies for their loyalty during her two years as president and expressed her hope for the continuation of the work in the years to come.

Mrs. A. Benvie introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. L. A. VanDuzer, Past Chairman, Stewardship and Recruiting, Board of Women, now living in Montreal. We were reminded that as Christians we were Stewards for Christ, that a Christian was one who confesses Christ as Saviour and receives Him as Lord of his life; that Stewardship meant we must use our abilities, skills, time, money and faith for furthering His Kingdom on earth. Let us be ready to experiment, to change, to be contemporary women in a contemporary world. Mrs. VanDuzer asked that as United Church Women we remember not only to minister to those we are in contact with daily but those less fortunate than ourselves both here and abroad.

Election and installation of officers brought a very informative annual meeting to a close.

Officers for 1966 - President, Mrs. K. Weaver, Stirling; Vice-President, Mrs. H. Pierson, Wellington.

Vice-Presidents for the Districts - Hastings East, Mrs. H. Harrison, Plainfield; Hastings West, Mrs. O. Steinberg, Trenton; Prince Edward East, Mrs. H. Gray, Picton; Prince Edward West, Mrs. A. Wallbridge, Belleville; Lennox & Addington N., Mrs. R. Ballantyne, Napanee; Lennox & Addington South, Mrs. C. Wright, Napanee; Recording Secretary, Mrs. H. DeClair, Queensboro; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. M. Piper, Picton; Treasurer, Mrs. E. Ward, Picton; Immediate Past President, Mrs. F. Smith, Newburgh.

SUSANNA'S FAMILY FARE

tips n' topics

Use Cards For Sanding

DEAR SUSANNA: Anyone attempting to sand a grooved surface with sandpaper wrapped around a solid block should try wrapping it around an old deck of cards instead.

The cards will slide and give enough so that the sandpaper will fit everywhere along the curved surfaces.

J. Black

DEAR SUSANNA: Have discovered one single exercise that is a powerhouse for stretching and tightening those inner thigh muscles... you know, that stubborn section just above the knee that ordinary exercising just won't trim down.

Simply stand in your bedroom doorway, no shoes, and brace your hands on either side at shoulder level.

Swing first one leg several times and then the other, as far forward and as far back as you can go.

As long as you don't move your hands, you may also bend forward as far as you like when you swing back.

In this way you reap a bonanza, because you will also feel a pull at the tummy muscles and a firmness in the outer thighs and buttocks.

Anna

DEAR SUSANNA: Might you be having trouble making drop cookie dough behave?

Add about 1/2 a cup of 100 per cent bran to the uncooked mixture. This eliminates the necessity of chilling the dough, and prevents it from spreading on the cookie pan... all because the bran, as it cooks, absorbs enough of the excess liquid.

This is a practical, economical idea. You have the added bonus of extra nutrition and crunch, nut-like flavor without ever having to use those expensive chopped nuts.

Mrs. J. H. Johnson

DEAR SUSANNA: I'm quite pleased when father leaves his workshop in a muddle.

It gives me great satisfaction to gather up the sawdust shavings, and bits of wood into small paper bags and store them away in a bushel basket.

They are such excellent fire starters — out camping, on picnics, or in the fireplace.

Homemaker

DEAR SUSANNA: My two daughters have shoulder length hair, and being teen-agers, they are at the stage where they can't imagine not washing and setting it at least twice a week.

Since this is done in the bathtub, under the shower, the problem of a plugged drain loomed continuously until our plumber showed us how to tuck a small layer of steel wool into the drain.

The loose hair clings to his improvised strainer while the water passes through.

Not a bad lint catcher either for the laundry tubs. Even used it the other day when I washed the dog!

B. L.

DEAR SUSANNA: For formal dates, when I want my eyes to look exotic, I coat them well with mascara — somewhat more than for daytime. Then, I finish up by stroking the upper lashes horizontally half a dozen times or so, especially towards the outer edges.

Makes me feel quite femme fatalish!

H. of T.

DEAR SUSANNA: A quick cleanup for discolored fork tines (such as the dark stains caused by eggs) can be accomplished by sticking the tines right into a jar of silver polish. Leave them while you go about some other household task.

When removed, they have practically cleaned themselves, and almost no polishing is necessary.

100 FISHERMEN STRANDED BY LAKE SIMCOE BLIZZARD

At least 100 persons and possibly some children spent Sunday night huddled in small ice-fishing huts on storm-swift Lake Simcoe, 50 miles north of Toronto.

Some were stranded in huts as far as seven miles from shore when a blizzard buried snowmobile tracks that would have been followed by operators to pick up the anglers. They were ferried out by tracked vehicles when the storm abated.

Exact number of those who spent the night on the ice-covered lake was impossible to determine. Police early Sunday had estimated that up to 1,000 anglers were stranded, but the figure was gradually reduced as more definite information became available from commercial fishing hut operators.

Even at that, there are many individual anglers who take their own huts on to the ice.

Most of the anglers were believed to have taken portable heaters and small lunches when they went out on the lake. But the huts themselves, many constructed crudely of wood, were no effective protection against the high winds and blowing snow.

Police in this resort community said as many as 10,000 persons fish through the lake ice during winter weekends. Last week there were about 5,000 huts on the 1,500-square-mile lake.

Some anglers were brought to shore Sunday by owners of the rented huts before winds whipped up the snow and cut visibility to practically zero. Others were too far out to be reached before the storm's fury struck.

Radio stations broadcast advisories to those stranded to stay in their huts. Police feared they would get lost in the dark and blizzard if they tried to walk into shore.

Early last week, 12 anglers were lost for 12 hours when similar conditions prevailed on the lake.

One policeman said it would have

It looks peaceful... but U.S. military observers have grown increasingly concerned that Cambodia has become a haven for Viet Cong troops fighting in neighboring Vietnam, and have warned the Vietnam war could spread to Cambodia. Cambodia has asked Canada, as one of the three members of the International Control Commission, to protect its borders and its neutrality. External Affairs Minister Paul Martin has replied Canada is willing to participate in any action to protect the territorial integrity of Cambodia.

BANNOCKBURN W.M.C.

The ladies of the Women's Missionary Council met at the home of Mrs. J. Donly for the January meeting. There were eighteen present, including some visitors from Madoc and Bancroft. Mrs. Donly extended a hearty welcome to all, and the prayer. Lunch was served and a hymn Doxology was sung, followed by of fellowship enjoyed.

The 12th Chapter of Romans was ready alternately and the roll call was answered with a Scripture shower.

In the absence of the Secretary, Mrs. Sarginson read the minutes of the previous meeting and "thank you" notes. A short business period followed and Mrs. Killingbeck gave a few thoughts on "Our Motto," for the new year - Matthew 26:41. Mrs. Donly and Mrs. Wood sang a duet.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Hilsden, of Bancroft, was then introduced and her splendid message was an inspiration and challenge to all, bringing help and encouragement. By special request Mrs. Hilsden also brought a message in song, choosing "Farther Along."

THREE FREED IN COBALT CASE

Prosecution charges were dropped against three men as a second preliminary hearing opened in Belleville Monday morning into the disappearance of more than $600,000 worth of cobalt from a federal government stockpile at Deloro.

The Crown's unexpected move withdrew allegations of conspiracy to steal against former Deloro reeve William Regan, 70; Bernard Boulter, 26, of Belleville, and Herbert Miracle, 45, of Marysville.

The three were jointly charged along with Belleville scrap dealers Leonard Vigodda, 26 and his father, 50-year-old Sam Vigodda, operators of Market Metals and Minerals.

The Vigoddas have requested trial by judge and jury.

Boulter and Miracle were employed by the Vigoddas when the arrests were made last August. Regan is demolition superintendent at the Deloro Mining and Smelting Corporation where the cobalt was stored.

It was the second conspiracy charge from which Regan has been freed. October 26 he was acquitted at a preliminary hearing along with Peterborough scrap dealer Irving Moldaver, 50. Moldaver, immediately after charged with theft, was found not guilty two weeks ago at his trial before Judge J. C. Anderson.

Hastings County Crown Attorney moved to drop the charges against the three men as soon as the hearing opened Monday before Magistrate R. C. Jackson.

None of the three answered when their names were called, although Belleville lawyer Robert Temple said Miracle had been held up by stormy weather.

Mr. Pringle then said the Crown was not proceeding against the accused.

"What do you want done with the information just withdrawn or dismissed?" asked the magistrate.

"Just withdrawn," Mr. Pringle replied briefly.

Immediately afterward, both Vigoddas stood in the dock fronted by their defence counsel — leading Toronto defence lawyer Joseph Sedwick.

The counts against them alleged conspiracy to steal cobalt from the federal government.

However, no decision may be rendered from the preliminary for at least a month.

Mr. Pringle told the court that two witnesses from Baltimore, Md., were snowbound in bad weather and would not arrive in time for the hearing.

He said they would not now be available until some time in March.

British auto sportsman R. C. Walker (above) has had a life-long devotion to fine machinery. Obviously he knows something about cars... but one thing he didn't know was how remarkably quiet the 1966 Ford is.

"1966 Ford quieter than my Jaguar?
Not jolly likely!" said Rob Walker

... then he drove the Ford.

Ford's Quiet Man, who recently demonstrated the extraordinary quality of the 1966 Ford to owners of some of the world's most expensive luxury cars, here discusses the '66 Ford LTD with Rob Walker at his family's estate in Wiltshire, England.

Compare your car with the quiet of Ford's solidly built body. Take a "Quiet Test" today.

British sportsman Rob Walker was skeptical about comparing the quiet of the '66 Ford with his hand-finished Jaguar Mark 10.

But then he drove both cars, and said, "This really is astonishing... I believe this Ford of yours really is quieter. Astonishing!"

Compare your car with the '66 Ford and you'll understand his astonishment. Ford's quiet ride is a direct result of more built-in quality — a strong, solid body that gives you quietness that compares with the world's most expensive automobiles.

This quiet quality means more value for you because today's Fords are built for years of dependable operation, years of owner satisfaction.

And with it all, of course, come Ford's wonderful new ideas for your comfort and convenience. Stereo Tape players. Silent-Flo ventilation. A "Magic Door" on wagons that swings out like a door, and down like a tailgate. And a host of other features offered first by Ford.

MADOC W.I.

The January meeting of Madoc Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. S. Ray.

Mrs. W. Hill presided and opened with a short poem "This Precious Gift," the Institute Ode and Collect.

The roll call "What we can do for new members of our community was answered by twenty-five members and visitors.

Letters of thanks were read from members receiving gifts, flowers, etc. The minutes and treasurer's report were dealt with.

Mrs. E. Moore gave an interesting condensed account of the Consumers' Report.

It was decided to hold a Dessert Tea, Thursday afternoon, February 17th, in the Eastern Star Hall.

Mrs. S. R. Beatty contributed a humorous reading called "Early Christmas Shopping."

The motto was prepared and read by Mrs. P. H. Naylor, "A little learning is a dangerous thing," teaching that the higher you climb the more windows you open.

The guest speaker was Rev. J. H. Thompson and his topic was Citizenship, emphasizing the rights and responsibilities of Citizenship.

Some of the rights dealt with were: freedom of democracy, equality by law, freedom of religion, assembly and press, trial by jury, and the arrested person has the right to what and why for, also the right to go where you want to as often as you want.

We have to consider the rights of others. We have to obey the laws as they change. We should use our voting privilege and work through public opinion to get things done. We should keep well informed and work out our own philosophy. We should take part in community affairs, share offices and make use of our different talents, concentrate on our own daily work. We are responsible for our own country. We have a wonderful heritage steeped in Christian teaching.

Mrs. H. Empey thanked Rev. Thompson for his address. Mrs. E. Moore also thanked him on behalf of the members.

The February meeting will be a Pot Luck dinner at Mrs. K. Gordon's home.

The meeting closed with "The Queen."

The hostess and her assistants served a delicious lunch and tea.

OFFER GOVERNMENT-RUN INSURANCE TO EVERYONE

Ontario's Conservative government voluntarily threw out its hard-won medical insurance legislation last Thursday and introduced an entirely new scheme offering government-run insurance to everyone.

Health Minister Matthew Dymond unveiled in the legislature proposals for free medical insurance for all welfare recipients, subsidized insurance for low-income families, and coverage for all others at a maximum annual premium of $150.

Coverage will cost $60 a year for single persons, $120 for childless couples and $150 for couples with children.

But the new provincial plan will not interfere with group insurance as provided now to employee groups by private insurers. Groups will not be eligible to apply for government insurance, the minister said.

The main differences in the 1966 plan compared with the legislation pushed through the provincial house by the government in a two-week battle last year are these:

1. Any individual resident in Ontario may purchase medical insurance from the government instead of having to buy it from a private insurer licensed by the province.

2. The government will pay doctors 90 per cent of the fee schedule set by the Ontario Medical Association instead of 100 per cent, for services to those enrolled in the government plan.

3. Benefits will be expanded to include specialists' services besides the home, hospital and office care by physicians, surgeons and obstetricians. The eight-month waiting period for maternity benefits will be abolished.

4. Private insurers will not be required to sell standard contracts to all applicants. A proposed association of private insurers called Medical Carriers Inc. will be abandoned.

5. Free medical insurance will be offered to everyone receiving welfare aid, instead of to everyone with no taxable income. Flat premium subsidies instead of graded subsidies will be made to those in low-income groups.

Dr. Dymond said the provincial plan would in no way interfere with the evolution of a federal nation-wide scheme. It had nothing to do with Ottawa's offer to pay half the cost to the provinces of a universal, publicly-operated national plan.

He estimated 1,800,000 persons would be eligible for subsidized medical insurance premiums at a cost to the province of from $65,000,000 to $70,000,000 in a full year. Because of the high percentage of persons subsidized it was estimated the cost of the plan would be $42 a person compared with $40 for a plan embracing the whole population.

Families of three or more with taxable income of $1,300 or less will receive a $90 government contribution toward their $150 annual premium.

For couples with taxable income of $1,000 or less the government proposes to pay half the $120 premium, and for individuals with taxable income of $500 or less, half the $60 premium.

Dr. Dymond estimated that 300,000 welfare recipients would be eligible for full premium subsidies. However, a welfare department spokesman put the figure at 243,000, including 90,000 receiving various forms of assistance, 98,000 on general relief and 55,000 receiving old age assistance.

Medical care coverage for welfare recipients, will begin automatically April 1st, without their need to enrol. For all others wishing to enrol in the plan, it will start July 1st.

Dr. Dymond stressed that no one will be forced to participate, whether eligible or not for free or subsidized insurance.

Doctors may practise outside the plan by billing their patients directly. But the government hopes doctors will co-operate by billing the medical services insurance division of the department of health, which will operate the plan.

The health minister said the Ontario Medical Association, but not the insurance companies, was consulted before the new legislation was drawn up.

The OMA would not negotiate on the government's proposal to pay only 90 per cent of their fee schedule, Dr. Dymond said. The association's executive maintained it was not empowered to negotiate on behalf of its members.

But it was expected most doctors,

APPROBATION DRIVER INSTRUCTION REDUCES TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Some people are dubious about the often repeated claims that high school driver instruction reduces accident expectation substantially. The Ontario Safety League would like to draw their attention to a recent large scale survey in Illinois which showed that teenagers who have studied driver education are involved in only half as many accidents, and convicted of only one-third as many violations as those who have not taken the course.

Using an electronic data processing system, the Secretary of State screened the records of 516,776 of the state's licensed drivers, aged 16-20. Of these 176,832 had studied driver education.

This group showed a rate of 171 moving-vehicle convictions per 1,000 drivers, as compared with a rate of 493 convictions for the non-driver-educated group. Driver-ed youngsters were involved in accidents at a rate of 56 per 1,000, while the others had an accident rate of 111 per 1,000.

PENTECOSTAL CHURCH ANNUAL SESSION

A well attended meeting for the annual business session was held on Saturday night. Pastor Killingbeck, chairman of procedures, suggested a favourite hymn, "Praise Him, Praise Him," which was heartily sung. Mr. Leonard Evans led in prayer. The Pastor read a portion of scripture from Acts and also from 1st Timothy, 3rd chapter, bringing a short message with regards responsibilities and requirements for those taking office. He spoke highly of his Board members and their wonderful co-operation during the past year, and for all who assisted in making it so successful.

A short discussion on various financial items was most encouraging. Mrs. Donly, secretary-treasurer of the Church and Sunday School, brought a report which was very gratifying. Miss Brenda Post gave a report on "Young People's" and everyone commended Mrs. Killingbeck who so faithfully conducts a children's meeting every week with a splendid average attendance. Mrs. Crawford, W.M.C. Secretary, gave a good report of the ladies activities.

Mrs. Sarginson who so capably carried out her duties for the past several years as Sunday School Superintendent, resigned, and Mrs. Roy Wood was elected as her successor. With the exception of one new teacher, Mrs. L. Evans, these were the changes in the Sunday School.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Donly for her faithfulness as Pianist and Secretary.

With a few items of future projects discussed, the meeting adjourned, after special prayer for Sunday School staff and Officers. Everyone was greatly encouraged to start out a new year with the thought upper-

RECREATIONAL COMPLEX NORTH OF BELLEVILLE PROPOSED BY LOCAL DEVELOPERS

Belleville may have a two and one-half million dollar recreational complex by Canada's Centennial year.

The complex, to be known as Hastings Pleasure Gardens, is planned for construction just north of the city above Highway 401, south of Cloverleaf drive and between Sydney Street on the west and Highway 14 on the east.

Organizers of HPG held a press conference at their offices at 194 Front Street, Belleville, Monday night.

The complex includes a 5,000-seat capacity arena, a skating and practice hockey ice surface, four sheets of curling, an indoor swimming pool, and gymnasium and convention hall, winter golf school, amusement arcade, shooting range, sports sundry shop, restaurant, driving range, archery range, tennis courts, a par 3 golf course, miniature golf, softball and baseball diamonds and track and field and soccer areas.

Ted Mowers, who owns the land where the proposed complex will be built and who first conceived the idea, said, "We plan to have the arena opened by November of this year."

"This project is something I've dreamed about since coming to Belleville in 1947. I have travelled a long way in the past few months, talking to many people. Out of this my dream's been born, but it's become more than a dream now, it's going to become a reality."

"All it needs to make it a reality is for the people of Belleville and of this area to get behind it."

The board of directors is being formed and should be completed this week. Mr. Mowers said the company is aiming for a board of 10 men. Besides Mr. Mowers, Ken Soden, Dr. Russell Scott, Richard Ellis, Richard E. Barrett, and Frank Follwell have agreed to sit on the board. Picton mayor Harvey J. McFarland expressed his desire by phone this week to sit on the board.

The public can subscribe to the building by contributing $100 to the company. In return, a subscriber will receive a booklet containing space for 250 stamps worth 50 cents each. After a subscriber purchases $1 in stamps each week for two years, then 50 stamps, worth $25, will be given to him by the company. Thus, for his $100 subscription, he receives $125 in stamps.

These stamps will be accepted to apply on admission price to any event or activity, held at the recreational complex.

Mr. Mowers said he has been negotiating to have these stamps sold at local banks and trust companies in the area.

A 70 x 10 foot plaque will be erected at the entrance to the complex listing all persons who purchased the prepaid admissions, thus making the complex a reality.

Speaking at the press conference Monday night, Mr. Mowers said, "I think you are behind me in this project, but you think it is an awfully big project for Belleville."

"It is big."

"It's like an army of ants trying to move a cow. One couldn't do it alone, but if all the ants worked together, they could move the cow."

"Similarly, if all the citizens of Belleville get behind this project, it will be built."

"The need is certainly here. The benefits it would bring to Belleville are tremendous."

"I think it would make Belleville an even better place in which to live, the envy of the nation, and to be a 'Builder of a Better Belleville' is what we all should be."

When asked if professional fund raisers would be employed to promote the new complex, Mr. Mowers said, "This will be the biggest fund raising campaign you have ever seen. This job is too big for any one man to do, so professionals will be called in."

"You must remember, this complex will be a commercial enterprise and therefore must be run well because it must be made to pay."

The meeting Monday night was chaired by Harry Rollins. Mr. Rollins said, "This is something we've been dreaming about for many years, but till now we've never had a person with the foresight, willing to risk everything so that you and I and generations yet unborn could enjoy the possibilities which lie in this plan."

"All we need now is leadership. This is a project, not for one individual, or two individuals, but is a community project."

Ald. Ken Soden said, "Last fall the recreation conference in Belleville enjoyed a large attendance. Everyone wanted to know when we could have more facilities for recreation in the city."

"Ted Mowers has spent the last six months putting this complex together and presenting it to us."

"We need as many people as possible who can see the need for this — and there is a need, a great need, and who can see what it can mean for Belleville, and who will get behind it and boost it wholeheartedly."

"I'm 100 per cent behind the project and I hope we will get enough other people behind it to get it off the ground."

"This project needs everybody's support. You've got to support anything that is going to boost Belleville."

"It is an ambitious scheme. But it can be completed with the help of enough people."

Mr. Rollins asked persons attending the conference for opinions on the project.

City planning director P. J. Beavis said, "I agree that facilities such as this would be an asset to the area."

"As a technician, I would query many of the areas of the complex's planning. As a private citizen, I would have a little more to say. There are questions of financing that must be answered."

"However, the planning board will certainly give every co-operation it can to this development and I wish the planners every success in this venture."

Mrs. Dorothy Brown of the Business and Professional Women's Association, said, "It is a little too early to say too much. Certainly, anything of this sort is going to boost Belleville."

"As a parent, naturally I am interested in recreation. As a citizen, I am interested in the welfare and the improvement of the city and am in favour of anything that will work for it."

"It would be a year-round drawing card for people. I've long been interested in some place for live theatre, ballet and opera. This complex would provide that area, and this appeals to me personally."

Mrs. Winnifred Donaldson said "Speaking as a mother and as a nurse, I am in favour of anything that is going to help improve the physical conditioning of the people."

"We're supposed to have more leisure time than ever. Our children need things to do and places to go. 'Something like this would be just wonderful. I hope it will get off the ground.'"

Dr. John M. Clarke said, "It is a marvellous idea. We've all had dreams about something like this."

"It certainly would bring attention to Belleville, but I'm skeptical of where we're going to get the money to do it."

Jack Devine of CJBQ said "There's no doubt our facilities in Belleville are limited and the plan would fulfill the need."

"It is going to take a lot of hard work, but I think the people of this city have shown they are capable of good hard work."

Lloyd "Red" Doran, City Recreation Director said, "When we speak of recreation for the city, we think in terms of the need. The need is certainly here but if we wait for the tax dollar to build it, it certainly won't be built, at least not in the near future."

"We need it, and if we want it, this is the only way we are going to get it."

Assistant Recreation Director Norm Carter said, "Promotion is the main thing in this plan. If it isn't promoted in the proper way, it will fall flat on its face. I feel it's up to each one of us to promote it."

"It's a far reaching plan and if we all reach out far enough it will become a reality."

Roy Dulmage, secretary of the Quinte District High School Board said, "I feel Ted Mowers deserves a great deal of credit for even thinking of a plan of this size."

"You'll recall some people tried to get a large auditorium at the new high school and could not. A program of this nature could fill that need."

Paul Mercier said, "This is big. I am glad to see people think big. The publicity we got from the world championship would be nothing compared to the publicity we would get with this."

Don Barrett said, "As to whether it can be done or not, that remains to be seen. But if the perseverance of Ted (Mowers) is consistent with what it has been in the past, then I am sure it will be done."

SUGAR AND SPICE

A Red-Eyed Teacher

Ever been on shift work? Most nurses have. Many industrial workers have. Farmers, executives, merchants, office workers — and until recently, teachers — have not had that delightful experience.

First time I ran into it was on my first job, when I was 17 — back in the middle ages, sometimes known as the Dirty Thirties. I have been a stalwart champion of the working man ever since.

It was on a steamboat on the Great Lakes. Seven days a week. For a dollar a day.

I worked the graveyard shift. Except that in those days it was a shift and a half, from midnight to noon. And it seemed to be rolling a little every midnight. Just enough to make you queasy.

Sick at heart, sick at stomach, we groggily made our way to the galley, about 11.30 p.m., for "breakfast."

The night cook was a jolly Oriental gentleman called Sing. He couldn't sing. And he couldn't cook, either. But his heart was in the right place. He knew we needed sustenance for the 12 hours ahead.

Chuckling merrily, he'd pile our plates with greasy eggs, greasy hash, greasy fried potatoes. Sometimes, for a change, there'd be greasy sausages and bread fried in grease.

Even a 17-year-old stomach, the human organ that most closely resembles a cement mixer, couldn't take it. We used to push the greasy gob around the plate, and settle for some greasy coffee.

But the clincher, the thing that really made our stomachs heave, that made us rush from the galley to our jobs of cleaning out the latrines, was the desert.

Triumphantly, Sing would sing out, "You like nice Boston Cream Pie? I got it." Now, as you probably know, Boston Cream Pie is a rich, nauseous concoction of custard topped with cream. Almost 30 years later, I still gag when I see it on a menu.

As you may have gathered, I didn't like shift work then. And it hasn't improved much during the intervening years.

This year, at our school, we're on a double shift. A combination of post-war baby boom and bureaucratic red tape have produced a situation in which the population of two entire schools, some 2,000 students, are sharing a building intended for half that number.

The school board had two alternatives. They could have each student hold another student on his or her knee all day, or they could run two shifts.

They favored the former, because it would save on teachers, lighting and books. But some parents were pretty annoyed at the idea of their 88-pound daughters holding a 200-pound football player in their laps all day. So the school board fearlessly compromised, and voted for the shift system.

And that's why your faithful reporter lurches out of bed at 6.15, wildly groping for the alarm clock, has a coffee break, if there is one, at 9 a.m., and eats lunch about 10.30 in the morning.

In theory, it's wonderful. Teachers have all afternoon to sleep, golf, curl or hunt, and the evening to prepare lessons. Good for the students, too. They have their homework all done by dinner time, and can watch TV or wash their hair, or go to the poolroom. All we have to do is get to bed a couple of hours earlier than in the good old days.

In practice, it's horrible. Wives persecute husbands in the afternoon with shopping, scrubbing, repairing, nagging. If you sleep in the afternoon, you lie stark, staring, 'asomnical, at night. If you work or play, you fall asleep in the middle of dinner, baked potato half chewed.

Nobody goes to bed any earlier than they ever did. And what we wind up with is a pedagogy of red-eyed teachers, frayed at the edges, facing a gaggle of yawning teenagers, some of whom were up at 5 a.m. to catch the school bus, every morning at 7.45.

ELDORADO AND UNION U.C.W.

The January general meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. E. Hagerman on the evening of January 19th.

The president, Mrs. Earl Blakely opened the meeting with the theme hymn "O Master let me with Thee," and the U.C.W. Purpose said in unison.

The roll call was answered by paying the fees.

The minutes were read by Mrs. Clayton Blackburn. Mrs. Claude Blakely, convener of Christian Education, reported that Eldorado and Union U.C.W. provided pins and bars as attendance awards for Eldorado and Union Sunday Schools.

The correspondence consisted of a Christmas card from Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Blakely and Venn, and a card of appreciation from Mr. and Mrs. John Irwin.

The following are the motions which arose during the business period.

Mrs. Stanley Franks moved that Mrs. Claude Blakely be assistant convener on the Social Action Committee. This motion was seconded by Mrs. Dan Robinson.

Mrs. D. Robinson moved that the expenses of the delegates to the Presbyterian be paid. Mrs. Gerald Blackburn seconded this motion.

Mrs. Glen Boyle moved that the cost of the World's Day of Prayer programmes be paid. Mrs. Cecil Boyle seconded this motion.

It was moved and seconded that the recommendation that forty-five dollars be donated by Eldorado and Union U.C.W. to each of the two churches, Eldorado and Union, be accepted.

Mrs. Earl Blakely announced the following: The World's Day of Prayer service will be held at Eldorado United Church at 2 p.m. on Friday, February 25th, instead of the regular afternoon unit meeting. The U.C.W. will be pleased to have anyone in the community attend.

The March general meeting will be held at Eldorado United Church on March 23rd at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Earl Blakely would like cards for retarded children, at Smiths Falls.

The Worship Service "Missions" was conducted by Mrs. Cecil Boyle, who opened the service with hymn 252.

Mrs. Cecil Boyle read the scripture selection, Luke 5:32-37. She closed with meditation and prayer.

Mrs. Glen Boyle had charge of the study period on Brazil.

There is a real need for information and understanding, she said. Brazil has a population of 600 million. She has unbelievable resources and many haven't been touched. But she is in great need of engineers and construction skill.

The capital, Bracilia, is very modern. Ninety per cent of the people of Brazil get their living from the soil.

After telling the main facts about the geography of Brazil, Mrs. Boyle began the study on Missions in Brazil.

The Christian Church has existed since it was discovered by the Portuguese in 1492, but the Church hasn't given the help it should have.

Mrs. Boyle concluded this part of the mission study, by using a film, "The Church at Work in Brazil."

Eric Sandford assisted by showing the film.

Poverty is prevalent in Brazil. Hundreds of thousands die without medical attention and without sufficient food.

An outpatients' clinic in the church basement in Bracilia helps to relieve the situation there. Milk from overseas helps children to survive. Agriculture missionaries contribute also to the welfare of the people. The cause must be cured. Education is needed.

Mrs. Boyle closed the programme with a contest.

good in any city if people are not too bored to care about it. Great music comes from our radios and record players and public concerts. Our libraries provide great literature as profound as we desire. Perhaps a richer community is needed to sponsor ballet. Culture is so close that we perhaps take it for granted. Sometimes modern audiences are rude, but we are living in the richest time that man could ever have.

After his address, Mr. Harris obligingly answered questions. He spoke in some detail of the founding of the Rodman Arts Centre by 24 organizations in St. Catharines, and suggested that such a centre is especially important in smaller cities.

Mr. Harris was introduced by Mrs. C. Wilson of the Theatre Guild and thanked by Mr. Roger Greig of the Hastings County Historical Society.

KINGSTON PRES. W.M.S. ELECTS OFFICERS FOR '66

The Kingston Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, held its annual meeting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Kingston, on Wednesday, January 19, 1966. Refreshments were served to the ladies upon arrival. The morning session commenced at 11 a.m. with Mrs. J. Wallace, President of West Huntingdon, giving the call to worship. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. G. R. Williamson, Trenton, and Mrs. G. H. Lyons, Kingston, gave the official welcome. Mrs. John Broatch, Trenton, read the minutes of the 1965 Annual Meeting. During the business it was announced that another training centre would be held at Albert College, Belleville, from July 18 to July 22. Mrs. H. Keefer, Trenton, convened the presentation of reports. Mrs. F. R. Laughton, Gananoque, retiring treasurer, gave her report and thanked everyone for their support during her term of office. Mrs. C. A. Smart, Kingston, reported for Afternoon Auxiliaries; Mrs. J. Button, Trenton, reported on Evening Auxiliaries; Mrs. Jas. Broatch, Trenton, for Girls' Groups; Mrs. K. D. Taylor, Belleville, for Children's Groups; Mrs. Wm. Kilpatrick, Stella, for Home Helpers; Mrs. W. M. Barlow, Belleville, for Welcome & Welfare; Mrs. J. McNoy, West Huntingdon, for Literature and Mrs. Cecil Huser, Belleville, Historian. Miss Frieda E. Matthews, Belleville, closed the morning session with prayer. During the noon recess dinner was served by the Kingston ladies.

The afternoon session began at 1.30 p.m. with devotions. Those taking part were Mrs. K. Hood, Mrs. Chas. Reid and Mrs. Don MacMillan, Deseronto, after which Mrs. G. R. Miller, Belleville, paid tribute to all the faithful women who have passed on during the past year. Rev. M. Putnam, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Kingston, then favoured with a solo entitled "The Voice in the Wilderness." Mrs. Keefer introduced the guest speaker Mrs. W. E. McCutcheon Hamilton, who is a member of Council Executive. Mrs. McCutcheon remarked that our attitude toward missions could be described "musty, misty and a must." Some people don't care to talk about missions because it makes them feel uncomfortable, some feel that missions don't involve them. So often we give only our leftovers to missions, when actually we should be giving our very best. If we really know Jesus Christ as our Saviour then we must share our experience with others, and missions consequently become a "must." If we withhold the good news from others the penalty will be great. We are expected to serve not only those in other lands, but those in our own neighbourhood day by day. Mrs. J. W. MacDonald offered thanks to the guest speaker. The offering was then received and dedicated. Mrs. V. Weir, Belleville, spoke a few words regarding the election of officers and Mrs. J. Craig, Belleville, on behalf of the Nominating Committee read the new slate of officers. The Rev. M. Putnam installed the officers and pronounced the benediction. Light refreshments were served to the ladies before they departed for their homes and another fine day of fellowship had been enjoyed.

WOODLOT LOGS OFFERED FOR SALE

Many a farm woodlot owner is using the slack winter season to cut a few logs in his forests these days. There are usually trees which need to be cut whether the farmer needs the money urgently or not. Trees which are mature or over-mature can be removed without damaging the productive capacity of the forest. Trees which are heavily branched, diseased, damaged, or of poor form, should be removed. Young growth will have a better chance after such undesirable trees are taken out, and often a little more light and air will also have a beneficial effect. Too much thinning, however, should be avoided.

Where there is any doubt what to do, an experienced neighbour can be of great help. Or a farmer can telephone or write to the nearest Department of Lands and Forests Office and somebody will answer questions or come out and discuss his problems.

Next to the matter of cutting down live trees there is the matter of cutting up the trees into logs. Here you may be confronted with several problems. You can cut a big tree and obtain - for example - 500 FBM of useable and saleable timber, or you can cut it up and get only 400 or even 350 FBM, or you may be able to obtain some high value veneer, if you grade the logs right. If logs are too long with heavy knots at one end you will probably end up with a plain sawlog, with less value attached to it.

This matter of proper grading can often decide whether a woods' operation is profitable or not, and much disappointment can be avoided by knowing a few rules about the grading of logs.

Not all woodlot owners are aware of the fact, for example, that a log buyer can deduct quite legally ten per cent from the volume of a log which is only slightly bent or crooked. 25 per cent for a moderate crook, one-third for a heavier crook, and 50 per cent for a bad bend. Further deductions of volume apply to other defects, scars and seams, etc.

It is therefore advisable to cut and grade your logs in such a way that most crooks and knots, all rotten butts and seamy portions are cut out, even if that means shorter logs in some cases.

SMALL CITY ART CENTRES IMPORTANT. SPEAKER TELLS U.W.

Mr. Peter Harris of Rodman Art Centre in St. Catharines, addressed the January meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and district on the topic "Are the Arts in Canada Only for the Rich and - or Bored?"

The speaker divided his comments on the arts into remarks on the artist and the audience. He stated that the artist makes a supreme commitment, which is especially hard in Canada, since only five per cent of artists make a fair living. He must finally be alone and produce on his own. There is no time for growth. He is expected to be "professional" too soon and is torn apart by critics. This prevents his learning from failures. Fashions in art are change at a terrific pace and thus an artist may be successful only temporarily, but he has a commitment to say something and must go on even if unrecognized. Today there is a lack of wealthy patrons as in the past, when an artist could develop under protection. People are making much money and could sponsor the arts, which in themselves are not primarily produced to make money but to enlighten and lift up the human spirit. Even art galleries such as the Dorothy Cameron Gallery in Toronto, have a difficult time financially.

There is a fear of failure among talented young people, the speaker continued. It is up to women to bring books, records, and art into the home to nurture and preserve the spark of talent existing in the young. Television is to true culture, an enemy on which families spend 46 hours a week.

There is a tendency to regard artists as second-class citizens, Mr. Harris said. But there is leisure time coming when computers will be our slaves and we will have time to develop culture. Too much is being left to schools where children learn by rote and do not have their artistic talent developed. They are bored, frustrated, and killed at the roots.

Mr. Harris suggested that children go to a cultural college for grades 12, 13, 14 and 15, and then proceed to an honours degree in grades 16 and 17. They could study philosophy, ceramics, design, art crafts or theatre. We need town planners and industrial designers to add excitement to the world around us.

In commenting on galleries, Mr. Harris spoke of the Metropolitan as a gallery of reassurance housing the tradition of art; of commercial galleries for the sale of artists' work; and of centres such as the Rodman Centre as galleries of the present which show what is being created.

The speaker said that the arts are not mainly for the rich but for the interested. One can purchase inexpensive original prints for $25 to $30. Art galleries provide almost free displays. Architecture can be

The debate on the subject lasted an hour and a half.

NIAGARA ICE BRIDGE—This typical winter scene shows Niagara Falls with an icy mantle. The ice clogging the river between U.S. and Canadian shores jams in the lower river after flowing over the cataracts. Special events for visitors have been scheduled throughout the winter months.

FIREMEN HAVE SUCCESSFUL DAY

Ideal winter weather prevailed on Sunday for the Madoc Firemen's second or postponed frolic at Moira Lake. With the sunny weather, a large crowd turned out for the event with the result the day was most successful both financially and from the program of entertainment provided. There was a skating area for both young and old, powered sleigh rides, horse drawn sleigh hay rides and a huge bon-fire to keep the spectators from getting cold. The refreshment booth was well patronized with large numbers of hot dogs, hamburgs and hot and cold drinks being sold.

During the afternoon two aircraft from the Stirling Flying Club put in an appearance, but as landing conditions were not good didn't stay long. Winners of the draws were Carl Derry and John Wagner.

The firemen plan to make this an annual event with a bigger and better program next year. The proceeds are to be used to purchase uniforms for the firemen.

MADOC RECREATION COMMITTEE REPORT

(Contributed)

The first 1966 meeting of the Madoc Recreation Committee was held at the Madoc Arena with a very good attendance. As this was the first meeting of the year, the election of officers was held:

Chairman, Doug Pigden; Secretary, Ken Broad; Vice-Chairman, Nominated at the next meeting; Chairman of Arena, T. C. Barton; Chairman of Ball Park, Bud Reid.

The balance of the meeting consisted of paying the bills and estimating the monies required to finish the Artificial Ice Project.

A few weeks ago, it was stated that $3,500 was required and then a quote of $4,800.00 was required. But since then there have been more expenses due to the following —

The compressor was dismantled for inspection and it was found two main bearings should be replaced at a cost of $90.00 each. The old bearings could have been installed again but would not last and may have done damage to the compressor amounting to thousands of dollars.

The one-inch pipe was estimated at $7,000 but the bills from the company amounted to $8,408.59 which consisted of more materials such as 3-inch high pressure valves at $153 each, safety valves at over $300.00 and 3-inch header piping and 1½-inch return pipe. These extra valves will allow the ammonia to be stored in the holding tank in a liquid form for the summer months when the plant is not operating. The safety valves were installed to eliminate all possibilities of the blow-up. It is noted that is the ammonia leaks out there is a terrific smell or the plant may blow up and do damage. This will be eliminated by the safety features installed.

The members of the committee along with a number of men and women have done an outstanding job so far. There could have been artificial ice in the arena today but this would have meant plastic pipe in place of steel pipe, a compressor with bad bearings, very few safety features, and a possibility of a plant that would not pass Government inspection, and a more expensive plant to operate monthly. When a job is being done for the many people who have donated money and time, it is felt that a little more should be added so Madoc will have an Arena with artificial ice that they will be proud to show any person they wish. This is why we require more money. In fact $6,000. This sounds like a lot, but let's look at it this way —

If 1,000 people would give $6.00 each or 50c a month or 12c a week or even 2c a day — or if 1,500 people would give $4.00 each or 34c a month or 8c a week or even 1c a day — the project would be paid for. Not so bad when you have an Arena in your town worth more than $90,000.

How many times have you heard "Madoc needs an industry"? Well, Madoc has a number of good industries and we are very proud of them too, but Madoc is like all other towns — they are, after more. If you were looking for a town to set up an industry, would you build a large building worth millions in a town with a ball park, an arena that is used for two months of the year for recreation?

This is what the people think, but it is not true. Madoc has the following for industry — a ball park, one of the finest in Hastings County including lighting; a Class "B" Fair with outstanding grounds which could be used more; a Public and Secondary School including Night School for education; a new Hall just completed by the Catholic Church where card parties and dancing are held; a Hunters' and Anglers' Club, the finest in the country, bar none; a Boy Scout and Cub group; a Legion Branch; a number of outstanding camping areas, plus fine motel and hotel accommodations; a group just purchased the Madoc

The most important one is the Madoc Arena. This one when completed with Artificial Ice will accommodate hockey, skating, curling, figure skating and a large number of other activities which this building can be used for.

Industry is looking for these facilities when they are selecting a town to build a factory which will require men and women to operate.

In 1929 Madoc had the best arena in Hastings County. In 1966 Madoc will have one of the finest arenas in Ontario.

Diary of a Vagabond by Dorothy Barker

Blessing of Communication

Having come to the close of the seventh series of fifty-two columns covering such a myriad of subjects, industries and personalities that I could never begin to enumerate their variety, I can be forgiven I am sure, if I look back a little on this eve of my eighth year as a dedicated promoter of our great country.

This Diary was launched during my trip aboard the Royal train when Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip made their last official visit to Canada. Often I am asked what, in my opinion, was the most exciting experience during the span of years the column has been in existence or which part of Canada I have found the most interesting. There is no comparison that I can apply to my Canada-wide travels. Newfoundland, Vancouver Island, Fort Churchill or the Peace River country, these all have an excitement in retrospect. How could I ever possibly choose between the towering growth of Montreal and Toronto as they stretch their tall new buildings skyward, or the peace found in the little villages and hamlets cuddled in the Rocky Mountain valleys, or along the rugged coastline of Newfoundland.

In 1965 we experienced the wonder of a foursome of astronauts rendezvousing in space, while on the island of Newfoundland residents of the small community of Centreville, on Bonavista Bay, experienced almost as great a thrill when Canadian National Telecommunications opened a new telephone exchange.

Newfoundland is one of the few remaining inhabited parts of North America not entirely explored by tourists. Prior to confederation it was usually imagined to be somewhere within the Arctic circle. Thousands of tourists have crossed from North Sydney to Port aux Basques since the CN has provided fast ferry service. According to Oliver L. Vardy, who I interviewed three years ago, these mainlanders are often surprised to find, when they arrive, that Newfoundlanders are not dressed in animal skins and existing on a diet of blubber. In this, the oldest inhabited part of North America, however, there are many small out-port towns where for years the only means of communication has been by dog sled, the freighters or by outboard motor propelled boats used by the fishermen.

I remember the day I saw Anne Rhodes, R.N., attached to the Grenfell Mission, climb down a suspended gang plank from the little CN freighter Bonavista and jump into

WHITE CANE WEEK FEBRUARY 6 - 12

"We live in the age of vision," said Mrs. J. T. Patterson, President of the Canadian Council of the Blind, in a special White Cane Week interview. "Today, more than at any time in history, working conditions demand good sight. We depend on our eyes for driving, for watching television and for reading, which libraries report increases each year."

Because good sight is so essential to modern living, the CCB and The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, who sponsor White Cane Week, are dedicating this year's programme to sight preservation and prevention of blindness. There is good reason for their choice. In this day when vision is so necessary, blindness is on the increase. According to a three-year study recently released by CNIB, the ratio is 132 blind persons to 100,000 population as compared with 105 blind persons per 100,000 in 1946.

Doctors state that half the blindness in Canada could be prevented if people would seek eye care at the first sign of trouble. In addition, thousands suffer eye accidents needlessly each year. The Workmen's Compensation Boards of Canada report on-the-job injuries totalling between 300,000 and 400,000 every year. This record does not include farm, household or recreation accidents.

Needless blindness and unnecessary eye injuries indicate that seeing Canadians should be more alert to the importance of their own sight," Mrs. Patterson, who is blind herself, emphasized. She declared that people give more thought to the care of their cars than to the care of their eyes. She gave a few suggestions for protecting your vision. See your eye doctor at the first sign of trouble. If he prescribes glasses, wear them. When watching television, keep the room lighted to avoid sharp contrast - it may cause strain. If you work in industry, protect your eyes by one of these open boats tossing and pitching on the salty waves of the ocean. For seventeen years she has been making her rounds from one small outport village to another in this manner or by dog sled. She told me wonderful tales about the babies she had delivered during all those years, or more recently of the flying service provided to get emergency cases to the hospital at St. Anthony. But until CN began expanding its telephone services on the island, villagers were at the mercy of the most primitive means of communication.

Extending Services

Earlier in December another new exchange was opened at Pogo with a capacity for 300 subscribers. Already there are 85 subscribers who can benefit by the five long distance lines linking them with the CN switchboard at Twillingate. Centreville's long distance service is linked to the switchboard at Gander.

Nurse Anne Rhodes, who told me she planned to live (after her retirement) among the people she served for so long rather than return to her native England, would surely be the first to rejoice in CN's plans to continue expanding its telephone service to all parts of Newfoundland. Maybe the day isn't too far away when fishermen in such villages as Heart's Desire can dial their neighbours in Heart's Content to make a date for two boats to rendezvous on the squid-jigging grounds.

BOOKS FEATURE WINTER ATTRACTIONS

Two new full-colour publications featuring Ontario skiing and winter attractions were unveiled in Toronto last week by Hon. James Auld, Minister of Tourism and Information. The 28-page books are "Ontario Skiing" and "Great Ontario Winter Vacations."

"These publications," Mr. Auld said, "are part of our continuing program to promote Ontario all year round. Additional winter activities promotion includes advertising, participation in ski shows, and a variety of special promotions."

"In addition to this," he continued, "the department is now engaged in a comprehensive survey of skiing facilities in Ontario. This survey will assess the appeal of various ski areas, determine visitor attitudes and provide guidelines for future development."

The ski book, an enlarged version of previous efforts, provides general information and detailed listings of all ski slopes in the province. It also includes tips on the purchase of equipment, a glossary of skiing terms and a hillside code of etiquette.

"Great Ontario Winter Vacations" provides a broad look at the many and varied attractions offered to winter travellers in the province. It includes general information on sports activities, urban attractions, fairs and carnivals and a section of travel tips.

Mr. Auld said the new books reflect a growing trend to year-round travel patterns.

MOTION PICTURES FOR CHILDREN

Motion Pictures are at long last being produced especially for children. Unlike Walt Disney films made for family entertainment, and still the world's best, these pictures have only the small fry in mind as to story content and hours of showing.

Under the banner of Childhood Productions, one of the newest films released is a Snow White Story, "7 Dwarfs to the Rescue." This is a full length feature picture that is not a cartoon. Pictures such as this are only exhibited at Matinee showings and never at night so that children will never be too tired to absorb it to the fullest. "The 7 Dwarfs to the Rescue" is a fabulous fantasy made more realistic because of its live wearing safety glasses. The pain you will save yourself and your family is inestimable.

"These simple precautions are effective in sight protection," Mrs. Patterson pointed out. "Remember, they are your eyes - one pair for a lifetime."

SPORTSMEN'S SHOW MARCH 11 to 19

Many of the most outstanding and prized dogs in North America will be seen at five championship dog shows to be held in conjunction with the 1966 Canadian National Sportsmen's Show in the Coliseum, Toronto, from March 11 to 19, it has been announced by Loyal M. Kelly, general manager.

The dogs shows will be a feature attraction at "North America's finest springtime exhibition" on March 12, 16, 17, 18 and 19. In addition, indoor retriever field trials will be held daily in the main arena of the Coliseum every afternoon during the eight days of the Show. Winners of the daily competitions will meet on the final Saturday to compete for the "gold whistle" award.

characters, The Dwarfs, Snow White and Prince Charming. Showing this Saturday Matinee only at the Plaza Theatre, Marmora. See theatre advt. for show times.

Other highlights of the dog shows will include five obedience trials and 21 specialty shows.

With a variety of new features and attractions, indications are that the 1966 Canadian National Sportsmen's Show will far exceed any of its predecessors.

There will be an extensive display of all that is new for sports, recreation, travel and camping. An extensive automobile show, a cottage show, a boat show, fashion show, an "outdoorsman's workshop", a duck decoy making contest, a "survival camp" and a thrilling variety show are all among highlights.

Proceeds from the Sportsmen's Show, again this year, will be used to conduct an extensive program designed to conserve the nation's natural resources of forest, field and stream.

THEY'RE HEADING HOME. Canada is pulling 120 troops out of the Gaza Strip and abandoning the reconnaissance role it has performed for the U-N peace-keeping force in Egypt since April, 1957. The force was responsible for patrolling a 25-mile desert section of the Egyptian-Israeli frontier. As a substitute, Canada will now provide 30 more transport drivers and 12 more signallers to the U-N force.

50 YEARS AGO February 10, 1916

A sad calamity befell the people of Canada when the old Parliament Buildings at Ottawa, which have been identified with the life of the Canadian people since Confederation were destroyed by fire last week.

Mr. Law, the member for Yorkmouth, two ladies, guests of the Speaker of the House, Mr. Laplante, Assistant clerk of the House, and three of the employees of the House, lost their lives in the disaster of last Thursday. Opinions are divided as to whether the fire was the result of accident or to the machination of our national foes.

Though some of the townspeople assume airs toward the country people (Hayseeds) over the different advantages, there is one thing that shows no partiality, the lagrippe, a thing no one person envies anyone.

The local 155th are giving badges to the ladies of the town with "Join Now" printed on them, in order to stimulate recruiting.

The Literary Society of Madoc High School met in the assembly room of the school on Monday evening, February 7th, 1916. A very educative paper was read by Harold Cross, after which it was moved by Carl Tumelty and seconded by Harry Roberts that Kenneth Connor be appointed to read a paper on Current Events at the next meeting.

We have a by-law in this town which limits the rate of speed for motor cars to 12 miles an hour. This rate of speed through our streets is almost daily exceeded. To make an honest dollar, measure and mark off 100 yards, time the speed fiend, report him and gather in a few honest shekels.

On Thursday morning at an early hour there took place the death of Lawrence Foley, at his late residence in the Irish Settlement. Besides his bereaved widow, Mr. Foley leaves a large young family who have the sympathy of the community.

On Wednesday afternoon, headed by the Principal Mr. Thain, about one hundred and fifty of the students and staff of Madoc High School paraded through the main streets of Madoc. The students carried banners urging everyone to buy War Savings Stamps. At the Post Office stamps were purchased and Reeve George West gave a short address regarding the sale of these stamps.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. Leslie

Ashley's group of Trinity United Church held a very successful afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. Corrigal. The guests were received by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Ashley. In the tea room, Mrs. S. S. Ashley and Miss Wood poured tea and Mrs. F. Tumelty, Mrs. Farrow and Mrs. Moon assisted in serving.

On Friday, January 24th Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meraw celebrated their silver wedding anniversary and were at home to over sixty friends during the afternoon and evening. THIS WEEK AND NEXT by Ray Argyle

In The Provinces

In every provincial capital across the land this week, the politicians were trying to stretch tax dollars to match the new demands of education and medicare. It was the legislative season in Canada, and from Victoria to St. John's, as well as Ottawa, the lawmakers faced the same old problems — too many needs, not enough money.

In the provincial legislatures, the issues and problems run the gamut from bridges and roads to law enforcement, fluoridation and Sunday sports.

But topping all the issues in the current sessions of the 10 legislatures are education and medicare. On the first — education — there is general agreement that budgets will have to rise for at least the next 10 years, until the current drop in the birth rate begins to be felt a decade hence.

On medicare, despite the urgings of the federal government, it was beginning to look as if as many different schemes as there are provinces will be hammered into shape before the country begins to assemble a national, universal health care program.

The Ontario legislature was only a few days old when Premier Robarts, after rejecting Ottawa's share-the-cost offer on the grounds that the province would be left holding the financial bag, unveiled his own medicare program. It will be a government-run plan independent of insurance companies and will cost $65 million a year in subsidies to low income residents.

Because the scheme is not compulsory, it does not meet federal government requirements. Nor do the B.C. and Alberta programs. Of the three, Alberta's is the most limited in that it merely provides subsidies for low income persons who want to join a privately operated insurance program. And relatively few Albertans — including those who most need help — have bothered to join.

The only medicare plan meeting federal standards is that running in Saskatchewan. The scheme, set up by the CCF, has been maintained by the Liberal government and costs have begun to drop after the first year of operation.

Alberta remains the only official hold-out against medicare in principle, but observers believe Premier Manning will bow to the inevitable, just as he has bowed on other issues he once staunchly fought. These include cocktail bars, fluoridation and Sunday sports. Alberta has had cocktail bars for several years now and in preparation for the current provincial legislative session, the premier said he would permit fluoridation and Sunday sports in any community voting for them by a simple majority.

In B.C., as well as in Quebec and Prince Edward Island, there's talk of a provincial election this year. Premier Bennett has clung to power by knocking the props from under the NDP by adopting their programs — such as socializing the B.C. Electric — whenever it looked as if his government was in danger. Around the handsome B.C. legislative buildings this year, there's talk that Mr. Bennett will upgrade medicare while leaving automobile insurance — another pet NDP issue — to a newly-appointed royal commission.

The Saskatchewan, Alberta and Nova Scotia legislatures open next week, and in Regina Premier Thatcher faces the prospect of his three-seat majority being further cut in a crucial by-election. The Nova Scotia and Alberta governments face no such danger, but there's mounting controversy in Nova Scotia over a proposed Halifax hotel room tax. New Brunswick's lawmakers, meanwhile, have been at work since before Christmas on Premier Robichaud's plan to take over most municipal responsibilities.

Taxes are also worrying Premier Shaw of Prince Edward Island, who faces the prospect of boosting the island's sales tax to six per cent, and would like to win another election first. Ontario also has heard rumblings of an increase in its three per cent sales tax.

Quebec's legislative session opened without any central piece of keystone legislation but the emphasis was on the province's own war on poverty, with the usual stress on defending French culture. Only in Newfoundland, where Premier Joey Smallwood has already publicly picked his successor, can the current legislative session be expected to run a predictable course.

was turned on and the compressor was checked for oil pressure and sounds. On February 5th, the compressor was started pumping air to test all the pipes, tanks and valves for leaks. This was done in order to have all leaks stopped before the Government inspector makes a thorough inspection on February 10th. His inspection calls for an air pressure of 130 to 150 lbs. in all the pipes, etc., and this pressure to hold for 48 hours. If this holds the ammonia which is ordered will be trucked in and the plant will be manufacturing artificial ice.

Now back to the $6,000 needed. This amount will not stop the opening of the arena as the committee members have consented to sign a note at the Toronto-Dominion Bank for this amount and they try and raise the money by operating the Arena with free help. Mr. John Wagner will be scheduling all activities, including ticket sellers. Mrs. Floss Kincaid and Aileen Pigden will be operating the food both and the members of the committee will be acting as caretakers. This will eliminate paying for labour. That's right - all operations will be handled free.

Bulletin No. 3 of the Community Programs Division of the Ontario Department of Education, states, "Adult citizens should be able and willing to assume the major responsibility for initiating, planning, administering and financing the organized recreational activities in which they participate. Organized recreational activities for children are the responsibility of the adult community and should be made available to all children."

This is a big job and is in operation now. How many men are there coaching hockey teams, managing schedules, supervising Scouts and Cubs, not forgetting supervision at Teen dances, and in the summer time coaching the ball teams. Some of these men claim they are only glorified baby sitters but they are also teaching your child team work, how to take a trimming without flying off the handle, and also making good citizens out of your boys and girls.

This $6,000 that is required could do two things - Madoc could have a Bobby Hull or Gordie Howe of their own, or prevent a teenage boy or girl from being enrolled in a Reform School.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held in the vestry of the church. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Oria Reid conducted the meeting which opened by singing Hymn 399, "Come let us sing of a wonderful love," followed by prayer.

During the business period, members were reminded of the great need for help in India because of the shortage of food and water. The financial statement and the executive for the coming year were read from the Presbyterial report. It was noted Mrs. Elizabeth M. Smith is the new treasurer.

The Scripture Lesson, I Peter 2:4-10 was read by Mrs. Wallace. The meditation on this passage, "God's People, Called to Proclaim His Wonderful Deeds," was given by Mrs. Woods. Questions were presented to the group and a thoughtful discussion followed.

Christians are always mindful of the importance of groups working together in certain areas of work in the world today. Three examples of co-operative work, in which our Society is involved were given. The story of the Christian Medical College, Vellore, South India, was read by Mrs. Allan. "The Student Christian Movement of Canada," was read by Mrs. Donahue. Mrs. Clarke gave the selection on "Christian Literature."

Prayer by Mrs. Woods closed the meeting.

Sales in the County.

There are 50 listed producers of S.P.F. hogs in Ontario and eighteen are certified. There is one producer of S.P.F. hogs in Hastings County. These pigs have tremendous feed conversion and produce high quality bacon, some going to market at 156 days of age.

Clare Curtin of Lindsay, member of Hog Producers Marketing Board told the farmers, the Ontario system of teletype selling is being instituted in Manitoba, but is not compulsory. Quebec is also basing its marketing system on the Ontario program. At present 75% of all farmers in Ontario favour the present system of marketing.

Large numbers of gilts are being bred in the United States at the present time and there may be a surplus of pork in the U.S. in the future. A resolution to investigate possibilities of export markets in Europe was suggested. Mr. Robert Rollins of Plainfield, proposed that Ontario Hog Producers have a teletype set up at Belleville Fair to show people how our selling agency

Hastings County is a source of good weaner pigs and drovers from Western Ontario and Quebec are regular buyers at the Community markets hogs.

PROTECT OUR NATIVE BIRDS

Each year following opening of the general hunting season, the Department of Lands and Forests receives numerous inquiries and requests to have birds mounted. Usually the person advises that he has found the bird already dead in a marsh, creek or along a roadside. The birds generally consist of ospreys, hawks, owls and many other birds native to Ontario at the time.

We would like to emphasize for public interest that all birds in Ontario except crows, cowbirds, blackbirds, starlings and house-sparrows are protected under the combined laws of the Migratory Birds Convention Act and the Game and Fish Act. Therefore any person who takes protected birds by hunting them or has such birds in his possession without lawful excuse will be Meraw. The teachers would like to thank all the parents, pupils and judges for making the evening a very successful one.

Game means all animals and birds protected in the Province of Ontario.

SUSANNA'S FAMILY FARE

Contact In A Flash

DEAR SUSANNA: As a new contact lens wearer, I had the agonizing experience of being trapped in my prospective mother-in-law's for dinner, and then being trapped in her bathroom for over half an hour searching for one of my lenses that had dropped on the floor.

She finally came to see what in the world had happened. There I was crawling around on my hands and knees, and when she appeared, my embarrassment was complete.

Thank goodness, at this point, we both started laughing like mad. She then proceeded to switch off the overhead light and produced a small flashlight which we played across the floor until the beam picked up the reflection of that 'tiny clear object'.

What a gal this is. She insisted that I keep one of her purse size flashlights for just such an emergency, and also advised me never to work with my lenses over a sink with an open drain. If there isn't a stopper, double thickness tissues or paper towelling spread over the opening are ideal.

Even if I weren't so crazy about her son, I think I'd be inclined to marry him anyway, just to inherit her!

DEAR SUSANNA: Being a model, I may be more conscious than most people about my clothes looking immaculate. In any case, I keep a huge plastic garbage bag rolled up neatly in the glove compartment of my car.

Don't get me wrong, I do not use it as a giant litter bag for inside the automobile! But it does serve a definite purpose in helping to keep the interior soil free.

Whenever I leave my car at a public garage to be serviced or parked for a few hours, I quickly spread the bag out over the seat behind the wheel.

This keeps any grease and oil from rubbing off the attendant's clothing onto the upholstery, and, in case the windows are left open, my portion of the front seat, at least, is kept dust free.

Natalie Z.

DEAR SUSANNA: Sometimes it is very difficult for a child to swallow pills, but on the other hand, a capsule will slip down quite easily.

Our son had this trouble with the pills he was to take until my husband got the splendid idea of ordering some empty capsules through our doctor.

He then crushed each little pill between two sheets of waxed paper and filled the capsules, one by one.

It is advisable to take the pill to the store at the time the capsules are being purchased so that the druggist can supply just the right size.

V. R.

DEAR SUSANNA: Give me the gal who can correctly judge the amount of mashed potatoes that are going to be eaten at a meal.

Unfortunately, by the amount of mashed potatoes I sometimes have on hand, this isn't one of my specialties, but I do have a good suggestion for using them up.

Stir in an egg and some grated cheese, and drop mounds of the mixture onto a greased baking sheet. Brown quickly in the oven at about 375 degrees.

Mrs. J. I. H.

DEAR SUSANNA: Prolong the life of snow boots and rubbers by making your own built-in protectors from shoe heels.

Do this by cutting a pattern to fit the lining of the heel of the overboot from a medium thickness plastic — such as is found in empty detergent bottles.

Mrs. R. Muir.

OUR HIGH SCHOOL

All our teachers report that the Professional Development Day last Friday was most helpful and successful. In Belleville, Miss West as President of O.S.S.T.F. District 23, chaired the general meeting and introduced the Guest Speaker, Miss Angela Armit of Western University, London. Miss Armit gave an inspirational and thought-provoking address in her own inimitable and witty style. Later the whole group broke up into subject discussion sections. It is interesting to note here that in addition to our Principal being District President, members of C.H.S.S. staff were chairman for three of these sections.

Mrs. Jean O'Riordan, as chairman of the Commercial Section, helped arrange for a visitation to Watertown. Half the fifty-one Commercial teachers went first to the Watertown School of Commerce and the remainder to the Agriculture Insurance Company. In the afternoon they reversed. Mrs. Laura McNab reports that they toured the whole school, finding the emphasis laid on the excellent equipment and on the students themselves. Some of the highlights of the Insurance Company were its accounting department, filing cabinet with twelve layers, steno-pool, data processing department and the postage department. The commercial teachers returned from this trip with many new ideas.

Mr. Ross Fleming as Chairman of Diversified Occupations reports that this section went to Toronto. They found the DeLaporte Clinic most interesting. This is a private clinic for all ages from Grade one to adults, designed to discover the causes of slow learning in individuals and to provide corrective training. They also attended Castle Frank School which is beginning to make a name for itself in its three-year course, mainly for Occupations Students, students come here from choice and work on individual timetables.

Mr. Doug Graham is chairman of the Technical Section which went to Ottawa (2 bus-loads) to the Ontario Vocational Centre. This is an adult training scheme for the ages of 17 and 66 years, specializing in Commercial subjects, journalism and the like. In addition to visiting classes, this group heard addresses by its principal, and by the principal of the Eastern Institute of Technology.

Mr. Wayne Lindsay went to R.M.C., Kingston with the Boys' Phys. Ed. group. They saw lessons in P.E., swimming, and muscular endurance, and visited the equipment stores. Maj. Danny McLeod spoke to them on the traditions of R.M.C.

All in all, Friday was a very, very busy day for all our teachers. Two of our staff assisted with judging Public Speaking in Elementary Schools, Miss Arnett on Tuesday night and Mrs. Cox on Wednesday night. Mr. Kinach and Mr. Cox spent Tuesday evening in Kingston attending a three-hour lecture in Physics and Biology respectively. As you know, the courses in these two subjects have been radically changed and every effort is being made to keep abreast.

Last Saturday morning Miss West accompanied eleven senior girls to the Medical Lab Open House in Belleville General Hospital. Dr. Rota and Ms. Peffer acted as hosts and leaders. They were a bit disappointed that no boys had come too for there is a keen demand for male lab technicians.

Preparations are going forward at high speed for the Annual At Home on Friday. The decorating of the Winter Wonderland is in the capable hands of Robert Armstrong, Murray Birch, Kelvin Chambers and their assistants, while Rhonda Hill, Sharon Smith, Carol Kincaid, and Eleanor Snider are making arrangements for the lunch.

For more than a week now we all have been teased by the tantalizing aroma coming from Mrs. Downey's and Mrs. Fleming's classrooms. We suspect that they and their girls have been making hundreds of tasty tidbits.

We hear there are eight nominations for the Snow Queen. Who will be the lucky gal? Her little replica now stands in solitary state in the main showcase.

Last Thursday the Madoc Juniors lost to Albert College 83 - 32. Jim Vandewater was top scorer with 12 points and Bill Blue second with 10. There was no bantams game. On Tuesday the Madoc Juniors beat Marmora 63 - 33. Bill Blue scored 30 points and Gordie Donaldson was second with 13 points. The seniors had an exhibition game with Marmora (the same night). Our seniors won 65 - 47. Harold Bailey was top scorer with 25 points.

CENTENNIAL GRANTS TO 14 ONTARIO CENTRES

Fourteen more Ontario communities have received grants for centennial projects, bringing to nearly $7.5 million the amount thus far contributed jointly by the Ontario and federal governments.

Approval of the gifts, totalling $130,370 was announced simultaneously this week by Hon. Judy LaMarsh, Secretary of State and Minister responsible for Centennial Affairs, and Hon. James Auld, Ontario Minister of Tourism & Information and chairman of the Provincial Centennial Committee.

Largest of the gifts, amounting to $44,000, went to the Township of Sandwich West in the Windsor region which plans an outdoor artificial skating rink costing $71,000. It also received a $5,000 Community Centres Act grant to reduce the municipal burden to $22,000.

Mersea Township in the Leamington area, drew matching grants of $7,716 from the Ontario and federal governments toward a $23,400 park development project which includes picnic shelters and tables and driveway and parking areas on land adjacent to the present township park.

Tiny Township got like sums of $4,430 from the two senior governments to build a new municipal building to cost $50,000. Two winter works subsidies totalling $12,000 reduces the township's share to $29,140.

Township of Shuniah in the Lakehead area will embark on three separate projects with joint grants coming to $8,728 and two winter works subsidies totalling $375. They include an $8,097 recreation building; a $4,000 recreation centre; and a stone cairn at the gateway of a township-owned park to cost $1,675.

Here's how the other 10 municipalities plan to observe Canada's centenary:

Township of Woolwich—a $51,000 community centre on land deeded to the township by St. Jacob's Lions Club. Queen's Park and Ottawa each is giving $4,408 and there's a Community Centres Act grant of $5,000.

Town of Gravenhurst will erect a decorative water fountain and a summer shelter in a municipal owned park. This is to cost $10,000, with the two senior governments each contributing $3,059.

Town of Orangeville plans a children's library and a senior citizens arts display room in the local library building. Its $13,590 cost will be split three ways.

Township of Ernestown in the Odessa district is purchasing land for a public park. Its $8,860 cost is to be split three ways.

Village of Pickering will put up a public library to cost $25,000. While it receives just $1,755 from each of the two senior governments, it won a $6,000 winter works subsidy and a department of education grant for $5,000.

County of Elgin receives two grants of $3,690 from Queen's Park and Ottawa toward a $15,000 restoration to the Elgin County court house.

Township of South Crosby plans a new township office to cost $12,000. It receives two centennial grants of $1,314 each plus $3,000 in winter works subsidies.

Village of Winchester will erect a $16,000 swimming pool. It was awarded two $2,613 centennial grants and a $4,000 Community Centres grant to reduce the municipal share to $6,774.

Village of Point Edward will put up a public library estimated to cost $18,774. Besides matching grants of $2,744 from Ontario and Ottawa, it receives two winter works subsidies totalling $3,506.

Township of South Dumfries plans to convert a school building into a community hall. This will cost an estimated $2,556 and receives match-

HASTINGS MAN RE-ELECTED DISTRICT FAIRS DIRECTOR

Ontario agricultural societies should attempt to bring prize lists more in line with the times, with greater emphasis on marketing and consumption of farm products, delegates to the Central Fairs Association were told last week.

Phil Dodds of Picton, vice-president of Class A and B Fairs in Ontario, told the approximately 100 delegates attending the annual gathering that it was "time for an overhaul" for fairs in Ontario.

He said that there should be more emphasis on promoting the consumption of farm products instead of merely showing the same class of exhibits year after year.

In urging fairs to try to be a little different, Mr. Dodds suggested a tree-planting program as centennial projects for agricultural societies. Most of the fair grounds would be greatly improved by the planting of a few trees, he said.

The Central Fairs Association (District 3) Convention is when representatives of fair boards from Kingston to Norwood get together to discuss problems and to set fair dates for the coming season.

Both men and women have their own organizations and meet separately to discuss aspects of fair programs from the male and female standpoint, and elect officers for another year.

Then in the afternoon the groups combine for a joint meeting when general fair topics are discussed and special speakers heard.

Special speaker for last Friday's meeting at the Club Canara in Belleville was Ronald Bagg, from the Agricultural Societies Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Bagg outlined the various grants available to agricultural societies, both from the Ontario and Federal governments with particular emphasis on the fair improvement grants offered.

Mr. Bagg also showed colored slides of events and especially attractive exhibits at several of last year's fairs.

Carl Heath of Hastings was re-elected for a second term as district fairs director with Associate director being Mr. J. K. Patterson of Kingston. Secretary-treasurer is Gordon McCubbin of Campbellford.

Mrs. Hilda Scruton of Kingston is the new president for the Central Fairs Women's organization, succeeding Mrs. F. Bailey of Cooper. Vice-presidents are Mrs. Clayton Thompson of Campbellford and Mrs. J. VanKoughnst of Napanee, with Mrs. W. A. Hume of Campbellford as secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Ronald Hamilton, R.R. 5, Trenton, as junior convener.

At their morning session the women heard reports and were given a demonstration of floral arrangements by Mrs. M. Johnston.

During the afternoon they heard a talk on "Our Prize Lists Up To Date" and saw a demonstration on "Liquid Embroidery."

Mr. Heath reviewed the year's district fair activities for the men and said that in spite of instances of inclement weather an over-all success was enjoyed.

During his official visits to the various district fairs, Mr. Heath said he had noted improvements in exhibits.

"Successful fairs are the result of co-operation on the part of many people," Mr. Heath said, emphasizing the value of the part which exhibitors play.

Mr. Bagg told the meeting that district conventions provided an opportunity for fair delegates to discuss their own fair and their own fair policies as well as to learn from

ARE YOU AN AVERAGE DRIVER ?

Average motorists are frequently disturbed, even outraged, by the actions of reckless drivers who are an obvious hazard on the highways.

They call for strict laws, harsher penalties and tougher driving tests to remove dangerous drivers from the roads.

What many average drivers do NOT realize is that they, too, may be hazards on the highway.

According to the Ontario Department of Transport, by far the largest number of fatal accidents involve average motorists—with years of accident-free driving behind them.

Because of this, the message of traffic safety must reach the average motorist, and make an impression on him.

One way the Department of Transport has chosen to convey this message is through regional Road Safety Workshops, such as the one which attracted more than 800 to Kingston recently.

This was the eleventh of a series of regional conferences held by the department. They have already been others through discussion groups and speakers.

"Make full use of all the talent which you have," he urged delegates.

Fair dates for 1966 deduced on were as follows:

Belleville	Aug. 15 to 18 incl.
Centreville	August 27
Coe Hill	August 27
Odesa	Sept. 2-3
Stirling	Sept. 3
Marmora	Sept. 3-5
Shannonville	Sept. 10
Parham	Sept. 10
Kingston	Sept. 15-17
Warkworth	Sept. 17
Picton	Sept. 22, 23, 24
Campbellford	Sept. 28
Tweed	Sept. 30, Oct. 1
Madoc	Oct. 4-5
Norwood	Oct. 7, 8, 10

Dates for Napanee, Mohawk Fair and Denbigh were not set.

held in Toronto, London, Port Arthur, Sudbury, Ottawa, Windsor, Sault Ste. Marie and Niagara Falls.

At the Kingston conference, the Hon. Irwin Haskett told delegates that the greatest need in the drive to reduce accidents was for each individual to ensure that his behaviour on the highway, either on foot or behind the wheel, reduces the possibility of an accident situation developing.

Community leaders from every section of Eastern Ontario heard the message. They took home the responsibility of spreading it as widely as possible.

But safety is not their exclusive preserve, as they themselves would be quick to point out. It is the responsibility of every citizen.

Let us not make the comfortable mistake of thinking that the highway hazard is just one man in a crowd.

If we really want to cut down on the accident rate, if we really want to make our roads safer, we have to do more than point at somebody else. We have to cultivate an attitude of safety, consciously and deliberately, in our own driving and walking.

LIBERAL SEES LEGISLATION TO CUT VOTING AGE TO 18

A bill to lower the voting age to 18 is almost certain to be passed in this parliament, Ontario University Liberal Federation president Fred Hamblin said Friday.

Mr. Hamblin cited a cabinet minister as saying that a resolution to drop the voting age will be introduced in the house by the Liberals.

Speaking at Trent University's Peter Robinson College, the regional vice-president of the national university Liberals predicted that the NDP would support the measure to get it through.

The only party that could be harmed by a reduction in voting age, Mr. Hamblin said, are the Conservatives who lack youthful support.

SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

How The Days Go

"It's not the cough you carries you off. It's the coffin they carry you off in."

That old English folk saying pretty well sums up my attitude toward life this week. It isn't the work that's killing me; it's the after-hour stuff, in a typical week.

Last Monday, after work, I wrote my column, then spent five hours studying an essay by C. S. Lewis, concisely called "Right and Wrong as a Clue to the Meaning of the Universe." Try selling that one to a girl whose chief worry is her hair, or to a boy who can hardly wait for the last bell to ring, so that he can streak for the pool room.

Tuesday night I went curling. First time this year. Next morning, I felt 112 years old when I crawled out of the sack. My muscles worked only in fits and starts.

Wednesday afternoon, rushed to matinee to see movie of Macbeth. Sat with doe-eyed female English teacher. Later told my daughter I'd held hands with her throughout the show. Daughter furious. Wednesday night, a two-hour meeting of our staff's General Futility Committee.

Thursday afternoon, a two-hour drive to the city, through a swirling snow-storm with Kim, her last (hallelujah!) visit to the orthodontist. Five years and 700 dollars after it all began the kid has straight teeth.

Two more hours home, the transport trucks giving us a mud-bath about every two miles. But we had a jolly conversation, in the cozy car, in the black night, in the white wilderness. Talked about four-letter words, their origin and their fascination. We agree they were ugly but powerful. Not the dirty ones. They reveal merely a limited vocabulary. But such epithets as slop, drab, slob, clot, punk, jerk, flink, have a certain horrible charm.

Friday night is relax night, the week over. I curled again, and later got into a session, one of those "Kids don't know how lucky they are today" sessions with some other creaky relics of the Depression. I also got hell when I got home. But not to worry. Tomorrow I could sleep in.

Tomorrow arrived, about 30 winks later, and the Old Girl, still a bit owly, informed that she wasn't up to driving the kid to the city for music lesson. I was thrust into the snow and ice. She slept in.

Hugh was to come home with us, for a weekend's skiing. He didn't show up at the rendezvous. We went to his men's residence. Nobody had seen him since eight o'clock the night before. With some faint hope that he's either eloped or been kidnapped, Kim and I struck out for the long, dreary drive home.

Momma is all rested up, and informs me that we're going out to spend the evening with some new friends. Groan. It was exhilarating but exhausting, four of us talking at once. Left at 3 a.m., clutching a delicious home-made coffee cake.

Sunday was church, curling in the afternoon, and a special treat in the evening — dress rehearsal for an annual pageant in the church. I am in charge of rounding up sufficient bodies of the right size and shape.

Have you ever tried to deliver 25 reluctant teenage boys to a church on a Sunday evening, in this day and age? Don't.

St. Joseph had sprained his ankle, skiing, and couldn't make it. St. Peter had the flu. St. Andrew just didn't bother showing up. St. Thomas had to go out of town with the bantam hockey team. St. Paul thought the rehearsal was next week. The shepherds have lost their crooks. The three wise men are two dopey kids who want to get home and watch Bonanza. Judas is sore because he's just learned he's the villain in the piece.

And you grope off to work in the dark Monday morning. And you have a rough day. And you come home and look at the mail; two whopping insurance premiums, a fuel bill that makes you want to run for the nearest travel agency, and a notice from the bank that your account is overdrawn.

Oh well, it's a great life if you don't die from sheer living.

DEAR DORIS

advice from
Doris Clark

A So-Called Friend

DEAR DORIS — I know I am too young to be in love (17) but I am very crazy over a certain boy.

I have a friend 16 who can get mostly any boy she wants. The first time she ever saw me with this boy she said, "Wow, he's cute! You want to keep a hold of him!"

My so-called friend is not the least bit shy, and soon got around my guy. I think she has stolen him away from me and I am so shy I don't know how to get him back. My friend is cuter than me.

Please help me.

Me or Her?

DEAR ME — So-called friend is right. A true pal would not more steal your boy friend than she would steal your watch.

What's more, any boy worth having soon gets over thinking of cuteness as the last word. Friendliness, consideration for others, a certain ladylike quality — these are the ways that win out in the end. Nuff said?

DEAR DORIS — I have been asked to be a bridesmaid for my brother's bride. I feel I am being used, since she is asking me in terms of politeness. We don't have a thing in common and we never speak unless it's absolutely necessary.

My brother is having one best man. Would it be very rude if I declined the "invitation"? I know it's an honor. But we don't appreciate each other's company.

Undecided

DEAR UNDECIDED — Extremely rude. And shortsighted.

Do yourself a favor and start right now to establish good relations with this new member of your family. It was gracious of her to so honor you. Look for her good points and be helpful and gracious in return.

Remember, "To know all is to forgive all."

DEAR DORIS — Is it true that a Roman Catholic husband and a Protestant wife cannot be buried in the same cemetery?

Wondering

DEAR WONDERING — Not any more. I know of cases in which the R.C. husband has been buried in a Protestant cemetery, with his special plot blessed by the Catholic priest.

In another, a Protestant wife has been buried beside her R.C. mate in a Catholic cemetery.

Discuss your particular problem with the clergyman who guides you in life, and avoid later misunderstandings and dismay on the part of relatives involved, by making a definite plan right now.

DEAR DORIS — My parents have always told me to be an individualist. Well now it has backfired.

I've been working for 10 months and have decided that I don't want to be just another one of the millions of girls who work in an office. I want to do something different, be an individual. I have always been interested in the medical profession but I don't want to be a nurse, lab technician or dietitian. Something that is different but connected with medicine.

I am 18, have two subjects in grade 11 and do not wish to go back to school. I have a diploma for comptometer. I am interested in children, reading all medical books, sports.

Please tell me what different fields there are that I could get into with this education.

Individual

DEAR INDIVIDUAL — Those "millions of girls who work in an office" aren't to be laughed off. Many do demanding skills and work up to senior positions.

Some who are stuck with routine shorthand and typing did what you did: left school too early.

If you want special status in almost anything, you need to at least complete high school. If you like medicine but don't want any of the medical callings, you need counselling.

Right now the only way you have succeeded in being different is in not knowing what you want at 18, and not wanting to pay the price of bending over study books.

The large crowd of sorrowing relatives and friends and the profusion of flowers testified to the esteem of the deceased.

accessible by a public road.

Since the late 1950's and early 60's the Department has adopted the policy of surveying a series of lots into sub-divisions on lakes throughout our forest district before offering lots for sale on a lake. These areas are chosen by officers on the basis of suitability, topography and by keeping in mind inquiries for specific areas from the general public. Tweed administrative district presently has approximately 400 cottage locations available for sale to the general public.

Our policy of administration is based on the best possible use of Crown Land by the general public and we are currently carrying out lake surveys to determine the recreational value of lakes in our district. The Public Lands Act makes it mandatory to reserve a minimum of 25 per cent of Crown land on the shore for public use. On lakes where the Province is the owner of this amount or less the lake is automatically closed to further sales.

Most of the major lakes in the Bancroft Division have been covered by surveys and key maps prepared showing the areas suitable for future sub-divisions to be reserved and locations which the inspector felt were not suitable for either. Within the latter category individual lots may be sold if found suitable to a member of the public provided the applicant pays a basic fee of $250 in addition to the current rate of $2.50 per ft. frontage and bears the entire cost of survey by privately engaging an Ontario Land Surveyor. In such instances the general conditions of sale are imposed and the parcel can contain no more than 200' in width nor less than 100' in width.

For further information on the purchase of Crown summer resort lots you may contact the Department of Lands and Forests district office in Tweed, or any of the Chief Ranger divisional offices of the Department of Lands and Forests in Bancroft, Dacre, Tweed and Napanee.

CAR OWNERS REMINDED A GIFT FROM THE HEARTDEADLINE FOR PLATES IS FEBRUARY 28th

Ontario's 1966 licence plates and vehicle permits were first made available on Wednesday 1st, for passenger cars, station wagons and motorcycles.

The plates and permits are on sale at all licence issuing offices throughout the province. The 1966 plates have blue lettering and numerals on a white background.

Expiry date for present plates—and the final day for getting 1966 plates—will be Monday, February 28. Transport Minister Irwin Haskett has said there definitely will be no extension beyond this date.

"The three-month issuing period gives ample time for everyone to get plates," stated Mr. Haskett. "For their own peace of mind, we hope early and avoid last-minute lineups." more motorists will get their plates.

For commercial vehicles, trailers and conversion units, 1966 plates will go on sale March 1 and the expiry date for current plates will be March 31. This procedure is the same as it has been for the past three years. For these vehicles, plates will continue to be available on a quarterly basis as well as for the whole year.

Monday, February 14th is St. Valentine's Day, the traditional festival of lovers, which is celebrated by the exchange of gifts and cards as tokens of affection. The symbol of St. Valentine's Day, is of course, the constant heart.

This year Heart Sunday falls on February 20, midpoint of the annual Canadian Heart Fund Campaign which supports the research program of the Ontario Heart Foundation into heart disease - Canada's leading health enemy.

DOG LOCATED IN TORONTO

Early this week a red Irish Setter dog owned by Mr. Roswald Daeoe, disappeared from his home in Madoc Village. The dog wore a Madoc Village dog tag No. 22. All efforts to find him failed until Wednesday morning when Mr. Daeoe received a phone call from the Humane Society in Toronto stating that they had the pet.

The manner in which the dog got to Toronto is a mystery, but Mr. Daeoe believes that a passing motorist enticed him into a car and took him to the city as a prank.

attention was drawn to our Branch by the judges for a fine job well done by his school.

A competition was also held for High School students but results of this competition have not yet been announced.

OUR HIGH SCHOOL

Our annual At Home has come and gone for another year. It will rank as one of the highlights and social successes of the year, and this is due to the efforts of many persons. We shall be mentioning only a few, because of limited space. Now let us imagine we have gone to the dance.

As we arrive, a cadet on duty greets us and opens the door for us. (John Blue arranged to have some cadets direct the parking and greet the guests at the main door.) Inside Jim Devolin collects the tickets and we proceed to the check room supervised by Bob Ash. Then we were received by Miss West, Mr. and Mrs. Kinach, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe, Murray Binch and Susan Cox, Robert Armstrong and Marthe Manthorpe. A bridge over a running stream (for which the Occupations Boys were largely responsible) leads the way into the Winter Wonderland of blue and white, whose attractive murals were painted by Wilfred DeButte, Norena Minnie, Rhonda Hill, Pat Wark, Richard Armstrong, Butch Edwards and Lenni Workman.

Just before midnight M. C. Murray Binch called onto the stage the eight contestants for Snow Queen. These popular beauties had been presented to the student body in Thursday's Assembly by their sponsors and the whole school voted by ballot for the Queen. Now Murray announced that Judy Feeney, Grade 13, was the winner and he crowned her as the Snow Queen and presented her with red roses. Her fellow contestants became her ladies-in-waiting, and were presented with bouquets. They were Beverly Fleming, Eileen Redcliffe, Carol Ann Kelly, Marthe Manthorpe, Linda West, Rhonda Hill and Sandra McCaw.

In a short time all went to the cafeteria where delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. Mary Cox was in charge of the serving and was assisted by the staff, Ruth Ramsay, Betty Holland, Sharon Cassidy, Sharon Smith, Cecilia Lindale, and John Blue. Mrs. Downey, assisted by Mrs. Fleming, and their girls had prepared the cakes and sandwiches. Mr. Forestell's coffee was even better than usual. Dancing continued until two to the strains of Hal MacFarlane's Orchestra.

Then on Saturday morning after the ball was over, Murray Binch and Kelvin Chambers formed a clean-up squad of two, assisted by Miss West. Sic finit, "At Home '66".

In their spare moments the Commercial students are typing envelopes for the Easter Seal campaign - some thousands, we believe.

On Tuesday afternoon a busload of Grade VIII students from Stirling visited our Commercial, Occupations, Home Ec., and Gym Classes. For this purpose they were divided into four groups, conducted by Sharon Stirling, Marilyn Zachariah, Ria Howard and Linda West of 12 Special as guides. At the close of the visit they were entertained by Miss West in the cafeteria.

The Madoc Grade VIII folk came Monday evening to school and met with Miss West, Mr. Kinach, Mr. Graham, and Mrs. O'Riordan to hear about the 5 year Arts and Science 4 year Commercial, 4 year S. T. and T., and the Occupations Courses. Later there were individual interviews.

On Wednesday evening the students of Grades 11 and 13 accompanied by Mrs. Cox and Miss Arnett went down to Belleville to see Macbeth. This is one of the plays they are studying this year.

The Guidance Council, made up of Principals and teachers from C.H.S.S., Marmora, Stirling, and Tweed areas, met on Wednesday afternoon in the Staff room to integrate the guidance programs between elementary and secondary schools, and to standardize the information for the various courses. Next week the Big Four (Miss West, Mrs. O'Riordan, Mr. Kinach, and Mr. Graham) will be visiting the Township School.

Basketball fans should keep this Friday night free to watch the world-shaking match between the Old Boys and C.H.S.S. Senior boys, in the school gym. Will the Old Boys win? What's your guess?

On Saturday our wrestling team of twenty boys go to Campbellford to compete in the Bay of Quinte C.O.S.S.A. tournament. The following Saturday they go to Whittby for the C.O.S.S.A. tournament. Coach Lindsay

Large Attendance At Huntingdon Township Public Speaking Contest

The Huntingdon Township Public Speaking Contest was held February 9th at the Township Hall, Ivanhoe. A capacity crowd was thrilled with the most interesting and unusual program. Previous to this date local contests had been held at four of the Huntingdon schools and two winners from each school chosen to compete at Ivanhoe. All eight contestants did an outstanding job with their speeches.

Miss Margaret Lahey, age 12, in Grade 7 at No. 15 school took first prize with a fine talk on President Kennedy. Second prize went to Miss Patsy Benson, age 13, in Grade 8 at Ivanhoe School for her speech on Sea shells. Other pupils competing were Vera Wickens, Ivanhoe School, a close third; Nancy Francis and Earla Fenn of White Lake School; Charlotte Lahey of No. 15 school; Kathy Holbert and Gloria Hicks of the Molra School.

Singing groups from the Ivanhoe, White Lake and No. 15 Schools led by Mr. Wm. Aylesworth, music instructor, entertained the audience while the judges attempted to make a most difficult decision. The judges were Mrs. John Wallace of Stirling, Mrs. Jean Mullin of Madoc, Mr. Gladstone Smith and Mr. Martin Porter both on the High School staff at Madoc. Mr. Smith had his guitar along, and he and his wife added a little extra spice to the program with their Caribbean folk songs.

Mrs. Wallace presented the prizes to the contestants. Able chairman for the evening was Mr. Don McFadden, appears very optimistic about his wrestlers. Don't let him down!

Coming soon is the famous Black Ball Tournament at Orillia for Bantam, Junior and Senior Boys Basketball. We understand this tournament is sponsored by four major universities in Ontario who are looking for good players coming up. More of this later.

Richard MacKenzie reporting on the Boys' Sports: Tuesday night the Madoc Juniors with the help of two seniors Kelvin Chambers and Eldon Hardy beat Quinte 53 - 47 in an exhibition game at C.H.S.S. Blue was top scorer with 21 points and Donaldson second with 12.

On the Girls' Sports Vicky McNab has this to say: C.H.S.S. was the scene Monday night of the last scheduled Girls' Basketball game of the season. Both the Junior and the Senior Girls won out over Tweed in a rough and tumble game, in which the scores were 25 - 21 for the Seniors and 21 - 11 for the Juniors.

MADOC COMMUNITY CENTRE COMMISSION

(Contributed)

The compressor at the arena was started last Friday and since then men have been busy making adjustments but have run into difficulty.

The compressor works fine, the pipes are holding the ammonia with no leaks and very little water is required for the cooling system. A circulating pump is needed to help push the ammonia through the seven miles of pipe. This pump was ordered three weeks ago but is not available chairman of the Huntingdon Township School Area Board.

Miss Margaret Lahey will now go on to represent Huntingdon Township at the Inspectorate Finals on Feb. 24th at Madoc Public School.

and another type has been arranged for which is expected to be installed tonight. This will solve the problems up till now and the rink will be skating Thursday night and on Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m.

The rink is also available for rent by contacting John Wagner who will be scheduling all ice time.

The rink committee appreciates the co-operation it has received from the public and although the rink is late in opening, with the artificial ice plant it will be possible to keep it open later in the spring.

Donations have been dropping off. $6,000 is still needed to complete the project and your assistance is requested with donations, rental of ice time and by your attendance at as many functions in the rink as possible.

The Baltimore Oriole

In last week's column, I mentioned that son Hugh had failed to keep a Saturday rendezvous with Kim and me. He was supposed to meet us and come home for a weekend of skiing. When he didn't show up, we didn't worry, thinking he'd become involved elsewhere. He was.

Tuesday night following, the Senior Tutor of his college phoned, long-distance. Was Hugh at home, ill? Nobody in his residence had seen him since Friday night. He'd missed a test in Psychology.

How would you go about telling your wife that her first-born is missing? It would have been easier to inform her that I had cancer and three months to live.

There's nothing more fun, on a night in mid-winter, than sitting around with your wife wondering whether your son has eloped, has been kidnapped, has become a junkie, is on a drunk, or is lying dead in a ditch.

Thus speculating, we took turns. She'd be white with apprehension. I'd be red with rage. Then we'd turn red and white, simultaneously, she with anger, I with fear.

And while we were thus engaged, do you know where he was? Whining and dining, playing a Steinway grand piano, in a swank apartment on Park Avenue, New York City.

Next night, I phoned his room-mate. Yep, Mr. Smiley, he'd had a card from Hugh. From Greenwich Village. Having a ball. Next stop, Baltimore.

This threw the whole family (Kim was in on it too, busting with excitement) into one of the finest frenzies of rage and relief we've ever enjoyed.

Suddenly, I had one of those rare flashes of insight which make people who don't know me think I'm a genius. "Baltimore!" I cried. "A-ha! Baltimore!"

I reminded the Old Girl that she has a cousin, studying at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. She said I was crazy, he wouldn't dare go there, and if he had, Cousin Pat would have phoned.

I insisted. She called, not Cousin Pat and his wife in jig-jam. His wife didn't want to come. Like a complete moron and ask if Hugh were there. So she asked, gaily, "How is the boy?" (They'd had a baby boy a few months previously.) Cousin Pat retorted, "Yours or mine?" And the Baltimore Oriole, as he is now known in the family, was in the net. Al-most.

He came on the line. "Hi, Mom. How are you?" Gay as an oriole. Innocent as a novice nun. When his mother was able to talk, she told him, for 20 minutes, how she was, and what he was. Finally, Kim and I wrested the telephone from her, and I spent 45 seconds telling him to be home by the weekend.

He was. Large as life, cheerful as a cherub. During the weekend, when he wasn't sleeping, eating or skiing, he regaled us with his tale. He'd caught the urge to travel late Friday night. Struck off at 3 a.m., in ski jacket and jeans. Hitch-hiked. Caught rides with university students, Negro ladies, hillbillies.

Arrived New York with 20 cents. Went to coffee-house to keep warm. Ordered coffee. Waiter said, "Sixty-five cents." Hugh said, "I've only got 20." Waiter took it. Read French novel and talked to junkies, students and assorted characters all night.

Sold plot of blood in Times Square for $5. Ale. Later phoned gentleman musician he'd met in his summer job on cruise boat, who had foolishly said, "Any time you're in New York, look me up." This chap and his wife met the ski-jacketed bum in jeans with warmth, fed him, enjoyed a musical evening together, gave him sleeping quarters, and sent him on his way with $15 cash.

Hitch-hiked to Baltimore. Had pleasant evening with Cousin Pat and wife Stephanie. Immediate plans to head for Florida and visit with friends of ours, then meander to New Orleans, where he knows a couple of girls he met at music camp, but foiled by parents' phone call.

Returned home with $7.00, cash. Disgusted with parents' attitude. After all, he'd sent us a card from New York. (We got it the day before he arrived home.)

He's back at school, but there's still one thing bothering us. Kim can hardly wait to get started on her first wife.

$27,000,000 EXPANSION PLANNED FOR RYERSON

A $27 million, five-year expansion program for Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in downtown Toronto was announced at Queen's Park, Toronto, last week by Ontario Premier John Robarts and Education Minister William G. Davis. Plans include four 18-storey "teaching towers", a series of three-storey inter-connected block units, and underground classrooms. Size of the campus will be doubled from its present seven acres to 14 acres.

The institute's capacity will be increased from its present 1966 enrolment of 4,100 day students to 10,000. The higher density use of land will permit three students to be taught where two are now accommodated.

The campus will expand east across Church Street and west across Victoria Street, and will be bounded on the north and south by Gerrard and Gould Streets as it now is. The present buildings will be connected to the new units by enclosing overhead walkways which will bridge the street.

Premier Robarts described the project development as "a truly great centre for technological learning... unique in this country, and able to fill much of the need for the highly skilled and specially trained men and women demanded by our increasingly technological society." He paid tribute to Ryerson's principal, Dr. Howard H. Kerr, and to Ryerson's governors and staff members for bringing the institution to its present "state of renown throughout Canada."

Construction on the addition is scheduled to commence this year, with the first unit ready for occupancy in September 1968. The capital costs will be shared by the provincial and federal governments.

The four 18-storey towers will be approximately at the four corners of the expanded campus and will house classrooms and lecture halls, seminar rooms, libraries and offices. The three-storey units will be built on a grid pattern, inter-connected to each other and to the towers, and will contain laboratories, student union facilities, dining halls, administration offices and further classrooms.

Ryerson's present quadrangle within its existing new buildings—which were completed in 1963—will be retained, but will be excavated for underground classrooms and then resurfaced and landscaped. The flat fifty years ago, "then went to the west coast, returned and went to the east coast topping it off with a visit to New York. They came home undefeated."

Lacrosse at that time had not been condensed into the box variety. The team carried 18 men, tough, hard who could play an entire game without tiring.

"There were four full-blooded Indians on the team," Mr. Vermilyea recalled. "They were the Pine boys, Arnold, Dent, 'Buck' and Hugh."

"Their father was a travelling medicine man, Vess by name, who dispensed ointments, belly drops, aches-and-pains remedies, and medicine to the farmers of the district."

"Vess travelled the side roads and by-ways via two large dogs hitched to a cart. In winter they pulled a sleigh."

Other members of the team were: Bill Coe, Percy Nayler, Fred Nayler, George and "Pudge" Moon, Wes Wellington, Alex Wellington, Art West, Percy Phillips, Bangie Kinlaw, Charles McInroy, Alex McInroy, Glad Murphy and Russell Lewis. Herb McCoy was associated with the club but did not play.

The four Pine brothers were outstanding. The full-blooded Indians were tough, rough and endurance personified. They never had to be relieved. Hugh was the goalkeeper.

"The other brothers," Mr. Vermilyea said, "were the originators of the bouncing shot that is a feature of present day lacrosse. In those days players shot directly at the goal. The Pines tried shooting at the ground in front of the goal causing the ball to bounce, generally in the net."

The Indians, Mr. Vermilyea said, (with no pun intended) "played hair-raising lacrosse. They could run like deer and never let up their pace from start to finish."

The other members of the team were hard as nails physically, he said. "They were farmers by day working hard until they donned their lacrosse togs and playing a full game without relief."

"They were a lot different to the softer city fellows who could play so long, then needed rest."

Mr. Vermilyea did not know how many members of the famous lacrosse squad are still living. "At the time when they were playing some sixty years ago they ranged in age from 18 to 24. They would be rather ancient today."

roofs of the new three-storey units can provide recreation and other open-air facilities for students and staff.

It was pointed out in the announcement that the project makes good economic use of high density downtown land. Also the scheme permits maximum flexibility in planning to meet expanding or changing student patterns as the project is developed.

When the institute was established in 1948 as the Ryerson Institute of Technology, it was an educational experiment to train much-needed technologists — trained personnel to bridge the gap between engineers who evolve theories and technicians who apply them. Enrollment started at 250 and has since grown to 4,100. Graduates total 5,000.

A 10-year building program ended in 1963, but within a year more accommodation was required. The need for expansion was thus one of the main problems faced by Ryerson's first Board of Governors, a 13-man group appointed in April 1964, by the Ontario Government to administer the school. The planners were called in that fall.

The training of technologists is not the first educational experiment to take place on this location. In 1848, Dr. Egerton Ryerson, Chief Superintendent of Education for Upper Canada, introduced a then-revolutionary method of training teachers by establishing a Normal School. The property was purchased for his proposed school and it officially opened its doors in 1852. The first floor held the Department of Education administration offices and here too, Dr. Ryerson's Council of Education laid the foundation for the publicly-supported school system of the province.

After training generations of teachers, Ryerson Hall became an RCAF training school in 1940 and subsequently, for another four years, a "rehab cram" school offering 60 trade and academic courses to veterans. It came under the jurisdiction of Dr. Howard H. Kerr who has been Ryerson's principal for 18 years and last week (Feb. 6) was appointed chairman of the Council of Regents of Ontario's new community college system.

LONG DISTANCE RATES BEING REDUCED AGAIN

Whoever said that the cost of everything keeps going up was definitely not aware of what's been happening with Long Distance rates over the years! Less than two years ago (in June, 1964, to be exact) Long Distance rates for "daytime" station-to-station calls were reduced and now, effective March 6, rates for "Night and Sunday" station-to-station calls come down as well. From March 6th on, Long Distance users in Madoc will find that calls over 250 miles to communities in Ontario and Quebec will cost from five to forty cents less, while calls over 600 miles to other provinces will drop from five to fifty-five cents.

Night and Sunday "station" rates are in effect from 6:00 p.m. on weekdays and Saturday evenings, and, of course, all day on Sundays. Since they are already lower than "daytime" rates (and very much lower than "Person-to-Person" rates) it's doubly pleasing that they will be still lower starting Sunday, March 6th.

Incidentally, I'm saving some more good news about Long Distance for a later column, so be prepared to be pleasantly surprised once again!

CAREFUL MANAGEMENT

What's the opposite of a "vicious" circle? — a "happy" circle? Well, whatever you call it, it's the opposite of a vicious circle that has led to so many Long Distance rate reductions over the years. In constantly striving to improve service and reduce costs, telephone engineers have come up with a remarkable number of discoveries that long ago brought the costs of Long Distance calls way down to within everyone's budget. The result was that more and more people began making Long Distance calls. The more people who make Long Distance calls, the lower the cost-per-call of providing the service, and the lower the rates can be. And of course, the lower the rates, the more the people who take full advantage of the service.

But all these things just didn't sort of happen; it took good management by our Long Distance people to tie everything together and push that happy circle to start with — and it still takes good management to make sure that the circle keeps turning in the direction of better and better service for lower and lower rates.

IT HAD TO HAPPEN

Just to prove how unsettling a wrong number can sometimes be, here's an answer one careless caller received:

"You've got the wrong idiot, you number!"

ICE CAPERS OF 1966

The Coe Hill Legion and the Winter Sports Club "The Teenagers" have joined together and are making an effort to bring Winter Sports to this part of the country.

This year's endeavour will be: A fishing derby through the ice on Wollaston Lake, with worthwhile prizes for the largest fish. Snowmobile races for young and old. Special routes are laid so that the racing will not interfere with the ice fishing. Prizes will be awarded to the winners.

All this will take place on Saturday, February 26th.

During the day there will be old-fashioned sleigh rides returning to the lake where there will be a giant bonfire and a refreshment booth.

The final event of the day will be a dance in the Legion Hall at night. The Headquarters will be at Island View Cottages on the Ridge Road where everyone will be welcome to get warm or visit at the big open fire.

We invite you, your friends and all who are interested in a really wonderful time, to come, meet new people and see this country in all its winter splendour.

Any further information you may wish please do not hesitate to contact Mrs. Margaret Solomes, Island View, Coe Hill, Ontario.

BEST LACROSSE TEAM IN THE WORLD

(The Belleville Intelligencer)

Roll back the curtain of time sixty years, mount your magic carpet and park it somewhere in the village of Madoc.

The happy-go-lucky burghers of that era were not worried over Viet Nam, NHL expansion, diet, heart disease, confederation, tranquilizers and old age pensions.

They followed the "unsequestered tenor of their ways": strawberry socials, church picnics, fishing in summer, shanny in winter, hunting the year round and original "hot stove" league debates in the grocery stores.

But the sports fraternity had something to crow about.

Perhaps a lot of the present-day residents do not know it but at that time this mid-Hastings village, later a hot political battleground and home of outstanding hockey teams, boasted a lacrosse squad that won a national championship.

Mr. Arthur Vermilyea, of R.R. 5, Belleville, now in his 76th year is the authority for that statement.

In a telephone interview, Mr. Vermilyea told this agent and there was a note of pride in his voice that "Madoc had the best lacrosse team in the world."

They defeated Orillia, Ontario's best," said Mr. Vermilyea, who dabbled in lacrosse at Albert College

BREAD PRICES INCREASE TWO CENTS LOAF

Bread prices across most of Ontario and parts of Quebec increased two cents a loaf Monday because of a rise in production and baking costs, spokesmen for five firms have announced in Toronto.

Canada Bread, Weston Bakeries Ltd., Dempsters, Silversteins and Christie's Bread have advised retailers that the price will increase to 28 from 26 cents for 24-ounce loaves.

F. A. Riddell, president of Weston Bakeries, said the main reason is a rise in labor costs. He also said there have been recent ingredients increases in the cost of flour, milk and lard.

Canada Bread, largest bakery in Ontario and Quebec, was the first to implement the increases. The other bakeries, all Toronto firms, also announced raises and spokesmen said the new price would apply to most parts of Ontario.

The last increase was in December, 1963, when the price of a 24-ounce loaf was increased one cent.

Donald MacDonald, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, called the bread price increases "more than coincidence."

"I shall probably raise the matter in the legislature as the major and latest example of the spiralling cost of living."

A spokesman for Oshawa Wholesale Ltd. said brands of bread it distributes were likely to increase in price later in the week.

Both Canada Bread and Christie's gave similar reasons for the rise: High labour, distribution and production costs.

ONTARIO SIXTH PROVINCE TO RAISE TAX

The increase of Ontario sales tax to five from three per cent has made it the sixth province to reach this level or higher.

The Quebec rate is six per cent and the New Brunswick government has proposed raising that province's rate to six from three per cent. If passed by the legislature it would become effective April 1st.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed only two provinces with no general sales tax—Alberta and Manitoba. However, taxes are collected in Manitoba on petroleum products, utilities, tobacco products and liquor.

Four other provinces have five-per-cent sales taxes. They are Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and British Columbia. The Saskatchewan rate is four per cent.

Food, except delicacies, is exempt from sales tax in all 10 provinces. Only Newfoundland and Saskatchewan collect taxes on children's clothing.

Sixty-four items are exempt in Ontario, including farm machinery and optical, dental and hearing equipment, prescription medicines, home fuels, text books and draft beer.

Quebec also exempts children's footwear and all prescription medicines.

Couples married in Saskatchewan on or after Feb. 25, 1965, can claim a rebate of $40 maximum in tax on household goods. Second-hand goods are not subject to sales tax and purchases by mail by non-residents are exempt. Other exemptions include railway rolling stock, orthopedic equipment, tobacco, medicine and newspapers.

Farmers and fishermen in Prince Edward Island and farmers in Nova Scotia can buy articles needed in their occupations without paying sales tax.

Footwear and medicine also are exempt in New Brunswick.

FORESTRY CLUB

The second meeting of the Centre Hastings Secondary School Forestry Club was held February 11, 1966. The meeting was brought to order by the president, Richard Empey. The minutes were read by the secretary, Lynda Bronson.

The leader, Mr. McMurray, spoke to the members on the ways to identify different trees and their leaves. Sheets were handed out on different leaves, where to plant and what trees would grow best in certain types of soil and their purposes. Order forms were also handed out on how to receive and take care of the trees. The meeting was adjourned by Lucky Lees and the motion was seconded by Barry Wilson.

EAST YORK TOPS
CENTENNIAL GRANT LIST

East York township was awarded $144,276 in centennial grants this week to proceed with a $229,000 historical community along the Don River.

The ambitious undertaking, one of the biggest made possible under the joint Ontario-federal centennial grant scheme, entails restoration to three area landmarks and the acquisition of plaques, art and artifacts as a museum and cultural centre.

This and nine other approvals for a total of $253,420 were announced jointly today by Hon. Judy LaMarsh, Secretary of State and Minister responsible for Centennial Affairs, and Hon. James Auld, Ontario Minister of Tourism and Information and chairman of the Provincial Centennial Committee.

Guelph was the second biggest recipient in the latest list, with matching grants of $39,311 from the two senior governments toward construction of a multi-purpose recreation building including an ice surface. Lesser sums went to the villages of Chippawa and Waterdown, St. Thomas, and Anderton and Augusta townships.

In the East York project restoration will be made to the Parshall Terry House, Brewery Hall and Helliwell House and an ancient paper mill to span the river. An arts centre, theatre court and picnic grounds complete the complex to be developed in the Don Valley Parkway and Pottery Rd. area of the township.

Here's how the other recipients plan to observe Canada's centenary:

Village of Waterdown—restoration of its Memorial Community Hall as a library and youth centre. The $20,000 project is assisted by matching grants of $1,844 from Queen's Park and Ottawa plus a $3,000 Ontario Department of Agriculture Community Centre Act subsidy.

Village of Chippawa—a $20,000 library building, with the Ontario and federal governments each contributing $3,266.

St. Thomas—a bandshell in Pinetown Park to cost $14,630 with the two senior governments each contributing $4,470.

Township of Augusta won four grant approvals totalling $6,482 toward a $14,300 recreation project, plus an additional $4,575 in special subsidies.

Township of Anderton—a recreation park to cost $7,500, with each of the three governments sharing equally.

TROUT SEASON OPENS
SAT., FEBRUARY 26th

With the forthcoming opening of this year's trout season, the "Count Down" by a large fraternity of trout anglers will come to an end by midnight of Friday, February 25th.

The topic "Trout Fishing" has ranged high in popularity among sportsmen at casual or club meetings for the past weeks and among the most ardent trout anglers for months. The large number of inquiries for information on trout fishing that reached the desk of the District Forester during the past weeks might also have served as a barometer for the popularity of this sport.

What is the forecast for the 1966 ice fishing season? Well - with certainty we predict a pronounced increase of snowmobiles of greater variety in the bush. The increasing popularity of snowmobiles among anglers will no doubt have a significant bearing on the number of lakes that will be frequented. Ultimately, snowmobile travel will attract more anglers and consequently have a reflection on the total catch of trout.

We hope that motorized travel over snow covered trails to otherwise inaccessible, remote brook trout lakes will result in a better harvest of hatchery planted fish. Brook trout which are not caught within two years from planting are most likely to have passed out of the fishery because of the short life span of this species.

Anglers who intend to visit the Tweed Forest District may fish for brook trout in about 300 public lakes. They may choose to fish for lake trout in over 100 lakes and for rainbow trout in about 50 waters.

We wish you every success but please bear in mind that future fishing and other recreation on our public waters depends on your co-operation by keeping them free from rubbish.

TURNS FIRST SOD
FOR PROPOSED RECREATION COMPLEX

The first sod was turned on the site of the proposed Hastings Pleasure Gardens near Belleville Saturday—and the big planned project was matched by the size of the sod.

Organizers of the scheme—projected to give Belleville and district a huge $2,500,000 recreation complex—used no ordinary spade to mark the event.

Instead, they brought in a mechanical shovel from a construction company to chew out a mammoth-size chunk on the site north of Highway 401 between Sidney Street and Highway 14.

And the project also received a lift of more material value in its first big subscription.

Richard Ellis, a well-known Belleville sports figure and sponsor, handed 24 $100 cheques to Ted Mowers, owner of the site and the man who first conceived the idea.

The presentation was the highlight of the event.

Mr. Ellis said he was making the subscription to "start the ball rolling" on the Gardens scheme—something, he said, the city and district badly needed.

Plans for the site include a 5,000-seat arena, hockey and practice ice surface, swimming, curling and outdoor sports areas.

"This is something this city has needed for a long time," said Mr. Ellis. "If we can't get something before Saturday morning.

No coaches means no "Saturday morning hockey" for the boys, done for our children in the next few years we might as well pack it in."

There was only one hitch to the sod-turning ceremonies—the mechanical shovel, after dutifully rolling over the first sod—became stuck.

The power shovel dug itself into ground that had suddenly turned swampy almost overnight as a sudden thaw and warm weather hit the district.

However, although it bogged down, the program didn't, and went off as scheduled.

Officiating at the event was Lee Grills, M.P. South Hastings, who was presented with a bottle of champagne by other participants.

However, as it was a conditional presentation, Mr. Grills was instructed to keep the bottle under seal until the Gardens were completed, then return with it to help officially launch the project as a going concern.

THE HEART FUND:
UNIQUELY IMPORTANT

It is important for everyone to realize that the Heart Fund, conducted throughout Canada during February is something more than "just another health drive."

The Heart Fund is uniquely important. Essentially, it is a combined appeal supporting the nationwide fight against a great complex of diseases and disorders—heart attack, stroke, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries, rheumatic fever and igborn heart defects to mention only a few.

Diseases of the heart and circulation, which your Heart Fund dollars help to fight, are responsible for more than 72,000 deaths in Canada each year. This is more than the combined total, resulting from all other diseases and causes of death. In fact, these cardiovascular diseases account for over 50 per cent of all deaths. The heart problem is no distant abstraction. Although national and international in scope, it exists as a painful and costly reality right here in this community. If you have any doubts, examine the obituaries which appear in the daily newspapers. You will find that the mortality experience closely parallels national figures; that, on the average, about half the death notice will mention 'heart attack', 'stroke' or 'heart disease'. All too often these terms are applied to family breadwinners in the prime of life—men in the 45 to 65 year age bracket.

There is only one practical way to fight heart disease, namely by supporting your Heart Foundation's balanced programs of research, education and information. You can do this by contributing Heart Fund dollars. Truly, the Heart Fund deserves a place at the very top of your 'giving for health' list. Send your contribution to the Canadian Heart Fund, 247 Davenport Road, Toronto 5.

DEAR DORIS

advice from
Doris Clark

No Crocodile Tears

DEAR DORIS — My husband and I have a horror of funerals and the insincere remarks passed by people who do not know the deceased, also the white lies a minister must utter to make the family left behind feel better.

We would both like to be cremated, without fuss. No mourning, no flowers, no sermon, no cortege. Our children consider us eccentric; perhaps we are. But why should they shed crocodile tears at our death, when during our life they only get in touch with us when they want something?

Browned Off

DEAR BROWNED OFF — Your long letter sounds depressed, disillusioned, bitter. I don't like white lies or any other kind, nor unjustified eulogies at a funeral. And it's your business how your remains are disposed of. But are you ready to reject all claims to a loving farewell?

Death has a way of bringing folks up short — the survivors I mean. And the comfort of a clergyman's blessing may mean more to your young people than you think.

If you have taught them to prize your material gifts to them, it's a little late now to stage a hate-sparking rebellion. Surely a heart-to-heart talk, with a little love injected — comes first!

DEAR DORIS — When I received your second letter I thought to myself: What a wonderful person Miss Clark must be to take time out from her busy schedule to write to me again about my problem!

As a very small token of my appreciation I am enclosing copies of two of my latest writings. I took the picture of our little country church with my little box camera which I received as a birthday gift 40 years ago. It cost one dollar and has given me many hours of pleasure as well as earning me cash with the pictures I take to illustrate some of my writings.

Anne

DEAR ANNE — Your newspaper story was delightful and the enlarged illustration unbelievably good from a box-camera snapshot. Goes to prove that with imagination and gumption you can often turn something insignificant and cheap into a productive hobby.

An up-and-coming gal I know staffed a large catering business with the sale of one jar of heavenly jam!

DEAR DORIS — In 1964 I gave birth to a baby boy. This baby was not my husband's although he does not know this. We lost the baby in November. I want my husband to know now and would like to know if it is possible for him to legally adopt him (the baby).

The birth certificate papers state that the baby is my husband's. Will this complicate things?

Confessing

DEAR CONFESSING — Any child born to a married woman is legally her husband's to start with, regardless of whether he is actually the natural father. Even if your baby were still living, measures to adopt would not be indicated.

If your unfaithful act is preying on your mind at this late date, it would be better, first, to confess to a trained counsellor, minister, or trusted friend. Between you, you may decide whether to save your husband this heartbreak, or whether it would be better for both of you if you square with him.

DEAR DORIS — My husband, when meeting someone new, always invites them to call on us, then wants me to write a letter expressing this again. Also often sends telegrams of thanks to people or firms after some visit of their hospitality.

I do not hold with this as I believe it is not the correct procedure, and so we wondered if you'd kindly express your opinion.

Who's Right?

DEAR WHO'S — Cheers for a husband with good social impulses! Not only are his ideas good public relations; some of his requests are simply a must for a gal who knows her manners.

As hostess, you are bound to follow through on your mate's invitations; and follow-up thank-you's after hospitality are indeed correct procedure.

Coming to Madoc—So as to assure the very best satisfaction in the most complicated and difficult cases of eye defects, such as chronic headaches, astigmatism, and weak muscles, I have decided to take an advanced course in optics, and am pleased to announce that I have been successful in securing the services of one of the best instructors in this advanced system. The eye specialist who practises the new system — "He Looks into the Eye" — F. A. Graham, Optometrist. Note — On account of Mr. Graham's wonderful success with this new system he has been impersonated by peddlars in a great number of places. Beware of such, claiming to be the specialist from Madoc, as Mr. Graham will be at Tucker's Jewelry Store Only. Book appointments in advance as we expect a great rush during these ten days.

Ottawa, Feb. 15th — The House yesterday discussed two topics, divorce and free wheat. The divorce problem was introduced by Mr. W. B. Northrup, member for East Hastings, who for a number of years has been an earnest and persistent advocate of Canadian divorce reform. He moved a resolution calling for a change in the present procedure in hearing divorce cases and asking the Gov. to take immediate action. The debate closed with an unexpected vote the first of the session which completely upset party lines. His resolution was defeated by a vote of 24 to 30 and the question of reform in Canada's divorce procedure is dead for at least another session.

Lieut. R. M. MacTavish, B.A., of Staffordshire, has completed a course in the Northern Command Grenade School in Otley, England, and has been awarded an Instructor's first-class certificate. He expects to return at once to Rugsley Camp, Staffordshire.

Hymeneal — Miss Barbara A. Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schaefer, one of the most popular young women of Gross Point, Ill., was married to Walter Tobin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Tobin of Madoc, Ont., at St. Jos. Catholic Church, Monday, January 31, 1916.

Hymeneal — At the Sacred Heart Church, Madoc, on Monday, Feb. 14 was solemnized the marriage of Frederick Laton and Cecilia Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bruyes, all of Elzevir. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father O'Riordan with nuptial mass. They were attended by Miss Frances Laton and Mr. Frank Barry, Queensboro.

John Hart, aged 43 years, was found dead on Tuesday afternoon in his home in Madoc Village. Hugh Keller, a neighbour, and Chas. Derry not having seen any movements about the house for some time notified Provincial Police Dymond. The house which was well locked was entered and Hart was found with a bullet wound in his heart. Dr. Beatty was called and Chief Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson was notified, who decided there was no need for an inquest. It is believed that the deceased who had been in ill health for some time died early Thursday morning.

The body of Nelson Schryver, fireman on the passenger train involved in the railway collision near Trenton early Wednesday morning in which he and Engineer George Naylor were instantly killed was recovered shortly after noon Wednesday. The body of the late Mr. Schryver is lying at a Trenton Funeral Home pending the recovery of that of Mr. Naylor. The bodies of the two railroad employees were buried in the twisted mass of the locomotive after it plunged fifty feet down an embankment following a rear end collision with a freight train.

On Monday, a very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by those who attended the Bridge held under the auspices of the Knit-Wit Club. Prizes were won by Mrs. W. Parks and Mrs. MacDougall. As a result of the afternoon's entertainment $15.00 was sent to the British War Victims Fund. The Knit-Wit Club sent a previous donation of $30.00 to this fund.

CENTENNIAL TREE PLANTING PROGRAM

During the spring of 1965 a Canada Centennial program involving the planting of trees by school children sponsored jointly by the Department of Lands and Forests and the Department of Education was begun. About 50,000 trees, mainly White and Red Pine and White Spruce, were planted by some 4,000 pupils from 140 schools within the Tweed Forest District. It was felt by all concerned that the program in the first year was a success and of considerable educational value.

Planning is now proceeding with the help of the school inspectors to enable the second year of planting to be as successful and enjoyable. Preliminary work indicates that the numbers of trees planted will be about the same as last year. Almost all eligible students participated last year.

Death — In Belleville General Hospital on Feb. 5th, William DeMille, of Madoc, age 75 years. He is survived by one son, Robert of Toronto, and two daughters, Jennie (Mrs. Craig) of Toronto, and Candice (Mrs. Cecil Lockhart) of Ivanhoe.

NORMAN — WANNAMAKER

The wedding of Miss Norma Annette Wannamaker to Mr. Andrew Earnest Norman was solemnized on Saturday, January 22, 1966, at 2:30 o'clock by the Reverend V. Tozer in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church in Madoc.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Wannamaker, R.R. 1, Madoc, and the bridegroom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Norman of Millbridge.

Wedding music was played by the Reverend David Potter of Madoc.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-length dress of rayon taffeta with lace appliques, highlighted with a flowing train of rayon taffeta and long lily-pointed sleeves. An elbow-length veil of nylon tulle with layers of scalloped edges flowed from a rose of peau de saie petals. She carried a bouquet of deep red Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Margaret Davidson, sister of the groom, was matron of honour and was attired in a red velvet street-length dress. She carried a nosegay of red Sweetheart roses encircled with white mums.

Bestman was Mr. Claude Davidson, of Millbridge, and ushers were Douglas Bateman of Belleville, cousin of the groom, and Garnet Wanamaker of Campbellford, the bride's brother.

At the reception held in the I.O.O.F. Hall in Madoc, the bride's mother received the guests in a two-piece navy blue dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted in a blue and black knit dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, the bride wore a teal blue herringbone suit with black accessories and a corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman will reside in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests were present at the wedding from Toronto, Brantford, Campbellford, Brighton, Peterborough, Bannockburn, Queensboro, Newmarket, Belleville, Bloomfield and Bancroft.

Previous to her marriage the bride was presented with an electric fry pan and electric hand mixer by her co-workers at McFarlane-Gendron in Belleville.

Fellow-workers of the groom at Beamish Construction in Toronto presented the groom with a vacuum cleaner and floor polisher.

The newlyweds were guests of honour at a wedding dance in Millbridge Hall, given by friends of the groom.

The New Morality

Conventional standards of morality are under almost continuous attack. But it seemed, for a few days last week, as if the winds of change had suddenly taken on gale-force strength.

While fashion designers unveiled a "nude look" for women's clothes — complete with cut-outs, bare midriffs and ever-shorter skirts — there were other more significant but less noticed breaks in accepted moral standards.

In Canada, a church magazine declared that unmarried mothers may soon be keeping their babies. A teen-age girl told a national TV audience, "You make your own rules" in sexual behavior. Actors in Toronto put on a play about homosexuality. And churchmen talked openly about something called "Christian atheism" while proponents of the "God is dead" school of religion stirred a storm in pulpits across the land.

To many, the increasing permissiveness in personal behavior and the mounting questioning of Christian dogma are signs of erosion and decay that will bring the Western world to an appalling level of decadence.

In every field — books, movies, television and advertising — a flood of sexuality seemed to bear society's stamp of approval for a new age of morality. The pregnant bride was outnumbering the virgin bride, according to some church ministers.

The apparent universal preoccupation with sex could be seen in such instances as the recent move by a group of University of Toronto students to dispense birth control information on the campus.

"Canada has absolutely the most hypocritical attitude to birth control in the world," a spokesman said. Dissemination of birth control information and contraceptives is outlawed by the Criminal Code of Canada.

The revolt against such obvious hypocrisy may, according to some sociologists, be actually a sign of a new and more honest morality. There is much evidence that personal sexual behavior actually has not changed greatly in North America in the past 30 years. The difference is that most people today frankly accept certain patterns of behavior which a generation ago were hushed up — but nonetheless prevalent.

If this be the case, a strong argument can be made for the New Morality as far preferable to the guilt-ridden, complex-inducing twisted standards of the recent Victorian age.

The New Morality, according to this interpretation, does not really basically change society's reliance on the family and on marital fidelity as the foundation of Western civilization.

It may, however, bring a new objectivity and a new personal freedom, leaving citizens free to work out their own behavior patterns, while still restricting practices recognized as detrimental to society as a whole.

This would explain the mounting public demand for more liberal divorce and abortion laws. Advocates of change in these fields argue that to lock people into hopelessly tragic marriages, or to force a rape victim to bear the child of her assailant, are in themselves acts of extreme immorality.

Whatever moral standards a society adopts are usually influenced by its science and technology. Primitive tribes permit polygamy because their society has no place for excess females. People in over-populated lands produce large families because they look on their children's labor as essential to their security.

Thus in our society, the birth control pill has already wrought a change at least in public attitude toward sex, if not in actual practice. And we have a mixed-up generation, trying to find new standards, unsure of what will finally prevail.

Ironically, during the past 10 years the number of illegitimate births have jumped 50 per cent. in Canada — at a time when birth control measures were more readily available than ever before. And according to a new survey by the United and Anglican churches, the majority of unmarried mothers were "nice girls" who just didn't know anything about birth control.

The essence of the New Morality would seem to be that an honest approach to sex — backed up by factual knowledge — offers hopes of a higher morality than the old standards which often brought tragic consequences as a result.

NEXT, A PLASTIC BOTTLE FOR BEER

North Americans may soon be drinking beer and pop out of throw-away plastic bottles, thanks to the ingenuity of a Canadian chemical engineer, Robert Huggan reports in The Financial Post.

Walter Heinrich, a plastics and chemical consultant in Rexdale, Ont., has solved the problem that previously closed off the carbonated drink market to plastics. He has designed a molded-in top for polyvinyl chloride (PVC) bottles which can be pushed on without causing a leak. U.S. and Canadian patents are pending. Brewers are inspecting the new sealer, and health officials are studying it. The advantages are immense — lighter bottles (savings on handling, stacking, freight, etc.) and savings on labor and transportation because there are no "empties" to collect.

"BETTER & SAFER BOATING" THEME OF CANADIAN BOAT SHOW

Believing that many of the 70 fatal boating accidents in Ontario during 1965 might have been averted by a more widespread knowledge of seamanship and the exercise of safer boating principles, considerable emphasis is being placed on "better and safer" boating at the 1966 Canadian Boat Show in the Automotive Building in Toronto.

During the eight days of the Boat Show the Federal Department of Transport is being represented stressing safety in boating and giving away to visitors a copy of their informative and educational booklet "Safety Afloat." Other organizations providing information for boatmen and helpful safety suggestions include the Ontario Safety League, the Canadian Red Cross and the Canadian Power Squadron.

The Canadian Hydrographic Survey is also on deck, accepting orders for charts of waterways and inland lakes. The Canadian Cruising Information Service have a booth to disseminate information about lakes,

SEASON OPENS MAY 7 FOR PICKEREL

The biggest, well-kept secret of the year — when pickerel season opens — has leaked out. The season here begins May 7 — in Northern Ontario May 14.

Northern Ontario Tourist Outfitters' Association manager Bib Giles said this year's dates were announced after a Jan. 17 meeting between Lands and Forests department officials and NOTO officers Dick Watson and Doug Wilson.

The department was considering opening the season on the secondary Saturday in May (May 14) in the southern part of the province and the third Saturday (May 21) in the north.

While this new method for setting dates had been adopted, it had not been written into regulations; many fishing camp operators took it for granted that the opening dates would be the first and second Saturdays, the same as last year. Because a number of bookings had been accepted ahead and no prior warning announcement made by the department, utter chaos would develop in the tourist industry.

Indications are that the eighth annual presentation of the Canadian Boat Show will be the biggest and best to date. More than 150 exhibitors are displaying a wide range of boats, marine engines, accessories and various products for boating pleasure.

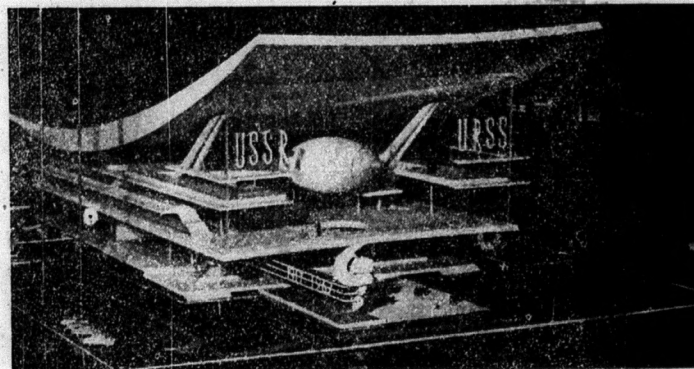

The Show was officially opened by the Hon. James Auld, Minister of Tourism and Information for the Province of Ontario on Friday, February 4th and it is continuing through until February 12th. An attendance of approximately 100,000 is expected.

SNOW FOOLING. This teddybear made of snow may look like a friendly fellow, with his open arms and big "Hi" emblazoned on his chest, but don't let his smiling ways fool you. Though teddybears are traditionally cuddly, this one would make a cold companion, we fear.

THE ESCAPIST. For the woman who wants to duck out from the chilling winds of winter, here's a coat that offers a turtle-neck escape. It's a black and white tweed overcoat featuring a high collar wind wall.

REPRESENTING RUSSIA. This is a model of the pavilion Russia will build at the Expo 67 World Fair in Montreal, in the same year as Canada's Centennial. It will be one of the most expensive pavilions at the exhibition.

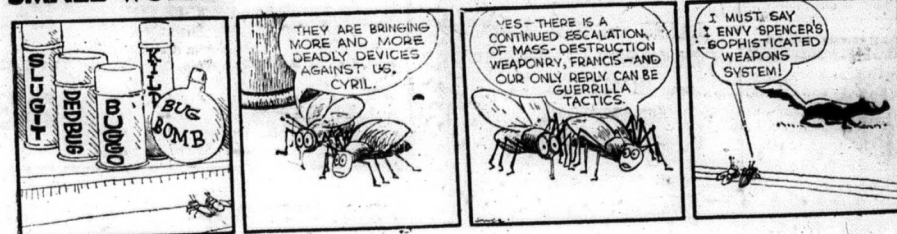

THE AIR WAR. A U.S. A4 Skyhawk jet returns to a carrier after an air strike on North Vietnam. At right, background, a destroyer follows the carrier as guard in case of mishap. After the 37-day bombing lull, Navy Skyhawks joined with USAF Thunderchiefs in bombing attacks on strategic North Vietnam targets.

MEN'S and BOYS' WEAR

OUR HIGH SCHOOL

We do think that C.H.S.S. is a very busy place. While we have not spoken of it before, the Yearbook Committee, headed by Mr. Ashley, are working hard gathering, editing and mounting pictures and material. On different occasions we have seen eager photographers snapping candid shots here and there in unexpected places. This week Mr. Ashley is taking staff pictures.

On Tuesday the students of 12 C and 12 Spec. Com., accompanied by Mrs. Jean O'Riordan, visited the General Electric in Peterboro. Most of their time was spent in the offices, but they did have a quick tour through the plant and saw some C.H.S.S. grads at work there. They were guests of C.G.E. for lunch. Their host was Mr. R. D. Heard, Employee Service and Community Relations. At the close of the visit, plans were made for interviews to be given here at school after Easter.

Mr. Cotton and Mr. Leckie, also of G. E., were in the school on Monday to interview 8 boys from 12D and 2 from XIII for opportunities in the C. G. E. Apprenticeship Plan. Only students who complete Grade XII successfully and who maintain higher than average marks will be considered. Further tests (on aptitude and the like, and lasting a whole day) are required before a selection is made. About one-quarter of the students interview may get jobs. It is rumoured that G. E. will be hiring 185 students this year drawn from a total of 40 schools throughout the province. Competition is keen, it seems, and we hope that some of our boys will be among that figure of 185.

Flight Lieut. Robinson spoke on Careers in the Services on Tuesday afternoon to all the boys of Grades XII and XIII. Opportunity is knocking at various doors.

Mr. Metcalf inspected the Boys' Phys. Ed. classes on Tuesday, while Mr. Tighelehar spent part of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday inspecting Math classes.

Plans are moving forward for Careers' Day on March 9th. Miss West reports that some twenty letters to prospective speakers have been sent out and replies have been received from over half.

There is a very attractive display of sewing in the showcase to the left, the work of Mrs. Downey's Home Ec. classes. You will see pillow cases and scarves with various styles of colourful embroidery. In the showcase to the right, are samples of work done in Mr. Fawcett's Electric classes. The Parallel Pushbutton Circuit and Return call system are projects of Grade 9; Control of a lamp from two locations is a grade 10 project. Grade 12 are responsible for the Radio Kit and the Electronic Control Device. Thanks go to Mrs. Fleming and her girls for the background and arrangement of the showcase.

The C.H.S.S. Band will be playing at the Junior B Hockey game on Friday night at the opening of the arena in town. Starting at 9 o'clock there will be a Special Dance at the school with music by the popular "Little Dee and the Capitols".

One of the newer activities at school is the Gymnastics Club sponsored by Mrs. Chaplin. They meet on Tuesdays and Wednesdays and are preparing for a Gymnastics display at Open House.

Harold Bailey, our Boys' Sports Editor of last year, returns to report on last Friday's games:

In the first game of the three exhibition basketball games held after school Mr. Bateman and Mr. Lindsay defeated the Bantam Basketball team. Although, both sides fought hard, the accurate shots of the two teachers added up to a two-point lead as the final buzzer sounded. The coaches saved face over the Bantams 36-34.

In the next game the Junior team faced the teachers of Centre Hastings. Mr. Lindsay, Mr. Bateman, Mr. Graham, Mr. Fawcett and three teachers from the surrounding district took a ten-point bulge in the early minutes and held the Juniors at bay, for the rest of the game. The teachers displayed superior ball handling and took full advantage of fast brakes and accurate shooting. A number of spectators watched as the teachers walked away with a well deserved 45-33 win.

At eight o'clock the Seniors took

ROLLINS HOMESTEAD AT IVANHOE DESTROYED BY FIRE

The large brick house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Aymer Rollins, Ivanhoe, 1 mile east of the Madoc highway, was completely destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon. The house was built by Mr. John Fox and later was purchased by Mr. Joseph Rollins.

Due to lack of water and freezing temperatures, firemen from Madoc Village and Rawdon Township were hampered in their efforts in fighting the blaze.

The garage, wood house and barn were saved as were most of the contents of the house.

The cause of the fire was believed to have been the use of a torch for thawing pipes.

The loss was partly covered by insurance.

CHIMNEY FIRE

While Madoc firemen were fighting the fire at Ivanhoe on Sunday afternoon a chimney fire was discovered in the Lombank office in Mrs. Irene Crawford's block. The firemen returned shortly afterwards and the fire was put out with fire extinguishers, containing dry chemicals.

the floor to try and at least pull one win for the school but were turned back 46-43 by the old timers. The old timers out played the Seniors throughout to earn the final decision. Although spectators were few at this one all enjoyed the game.

Although the school lost all games they were hard fought and everyone enjoyed the games.

Lloyd Robinson reports that on Saturday, February 19th the wrestling team of Madoc travelled to Campbellford to compete in the Bay of Quinte wrestling tournament. Madoc placed 6th among all the different schools. Leon LaBarge and Lloyd Robinson both placed 2nd in their groups. The following boys placed fourth — Laverne Sagriff, Eldon Holden, Richard Rose, Moira Secondary School placed first.

On Tuesday the Madoc Bantams were defeated by Tweed in Tweed 43-26. Fred O'Riordan was the top scorer for Madoc. The Madoc Juniors played a very close game but lost by one point. The score was 35-34 and Bill Blue was the top scorer. The Seniors were victorious. Kelvin Chambers led the team to a win by 12 points. The score was 48-36.

Vicki McNab reports the girls' sports: Madoc Senior and Junior girls walked off with the basketball game played here Monday night, making the Seniors the Centre Hastings District Champions. The score was 49-18. Junior score was 22-9. The Juniors still have one more game to play and that with Tweed Thursday night.

Congratulations are due to the Seniors who have played fine basketball throughout the season. Good luck to you, Juniors, in your final game Thursday night.

DEADLY WEAPON. An American Congressman, Craig Hosmer, has noted that the ace of spades is a deadly omen in North Vietnam, so he suggests hundreds of thousands be dropped on the country as psychological warfare. He said owl hoots, plastic girls and dogs are also superstitiously feared, and advised they be used in the Vietnam war as well.

SUSANNA'S FAMILY FARE

tips n' topics

Next To The Skin

DEAR SUSANNA: No wonder skiers can wear stretchy, slim fitting, unlined ski pants and still keep warm. I have just learned why from the owner of a winter sports equipment and accessory shop.

It is not the heaviness of the outside material that is so important, it is what goes next to the skin that counts.

He talked me right out of a more expensive LINED ski pants for the youngsters and myself, into the more streamlined, unlined ones... PLUS close fitting thermal underwear with long sleeves and legs.

Sports

DEAR SUSANNA: Celery that has become somewhat limp and dry will take on a new crispness and succulence if left in a container of ice water in the refrigerator overnight.

Mrs. L. H.

DEAR SUSANNA: An empty, well-washed mucilage bottle, partly filled with water, makes a rather neat envelope and stamp watter to have in one's desk.

Faithful Reader

DEAR SUSANNA: Install a row of metal weights, or even better, a row of magnets along the bottom hem of your stall shower curtain, if you are having trouble with it swishing into the shower spray, instead of staying protectively in place.

George L.

DEAR SUSANNA: What is it with dogs and bones? I always thought they went together like a horse and carriage... but now I've been advised by my friends NOT to feed my doggie a bone.

Is it really bad for him? Do you know anyone who can

Herb V. Ellis

Only a veterinarian or two, Herb. I'm sorry, but the sad word in the bow wow set is: no bones.

Not only can the minerals obtained by chewing bones be easily supplied from other sources, but bones may splinter and tear the canine's tissues when swallowed, or they may cause serious obstruction of the digestive tract.

Poor fellows. Their life is getting to be a dog's life after all.

DEAR SUSANNA: Sometimes cupboard hinge screws become loose to the point where they twist around indefinitely—which means that the screw has worn a hole larger than itself.

If this happens, remove the hardware and tap the wrong end of a used wooden match as far as it will go into the opening and break it off.

When you re-insert the screw it will form a new thread in the wood and should hold firmly again. For very small holes, the same result can be obtained by using the broad end of a toothpick.

Mrs. Margaret Riley

DEAR SUSANNA: When youngsters' cotton shirts become a little short, I add a wide hem to them, thus forming a band, and place a couple of button holes close together with buttons for doing up snugly in front. Results? Jac shirts!

DEAR DORIS

advice from Doris Glark

The Fear Of Failure

DEAR DORIS— There has always been a feeling of incompetency and a fear of failure in my life. In a period of optimism I decided to teach but now I know I will never make a good teacher.

I started a commercial art course, by mail, at 14, but never finished it. I love art but don't really know if I have any talent.

One thing that haunts me is the fear that I am abnormal. My mind seems to be preoccupied with sex. I never date because the church is the center of social activities here and I am not a member. I am 20.

Just Existing

DEAR JUST— Even geniuses have been classified as below normal; the most promising student needs encouragement. When a little girl is told often enough that she'll never amount to anything, and her life is packed full of prohibitions with no positive praise nor promise, she believes it.

I know a middle-aged woman who never finishes anything she starts. There's that old nagging fear, hangover from childhood, which tells her she'll never get anywhere, so why try?

Sex is just one more frustration. You need dates, friends, the lit' one rousing success can give you. Some new contacts, some religious philosophy—the positive, believing kind—can change your doubts to hope. Join that church.

DEAR DORIS— Am I right in saying that you made up a sheet of six supper recipes from some ideas sent in by a reader? If so, how do I get them?

Stretching The Pennies

DEAR STRETCHING— Yes. A cook-housekeeper who loves to experiment is sharing some concoctions. We had them tested by a home economist. They use chuck steak, chicken, chicken livers, pork chops to produce delectable dishes.

You can have them for a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents sent in to me through this newspaper. Ask for "Everyday Recipes from a Happy Housewife."

DEAR DORIS— This gentleman I am about to marry is a widower. I have known him for 35 years and it is a second wedding for both of us.

1. Do we send invitations to relatives a long distance away, when we know they cannot attend?

2. Is it proper for me to wear a corsage?

3. Would it be proper for us to give corsages to our daughters?

4. What about a solo sung at second weddings?

Second

DEAR SECOND— 1. No. Send announcements.

2. Yes.

3. No.

4. Fine.

The rule is that second weddings call for less fuss and frills; fewer guests. One attendant apiece; gifts not expected.

DEAR DORIS— I have been engaged for over a year, but for some reason I dream of other boys, especially one. Now I'm not sure if I love the boy I'm engaged to or not.

If I were to break up with him, how would I tell him? I'm afraid of what he would do to himself if I did.

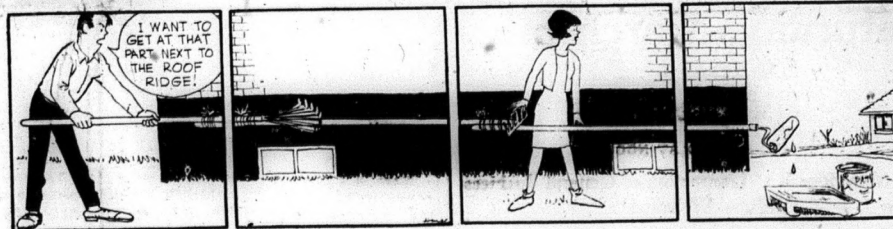

Confused

DEAR CONFUSED— Better to be afraid of what it would do to you if you don't. Such uncertainty could mean a lifetime of misery for both of you. Have the courage to talk to him about your doubts—Promo!

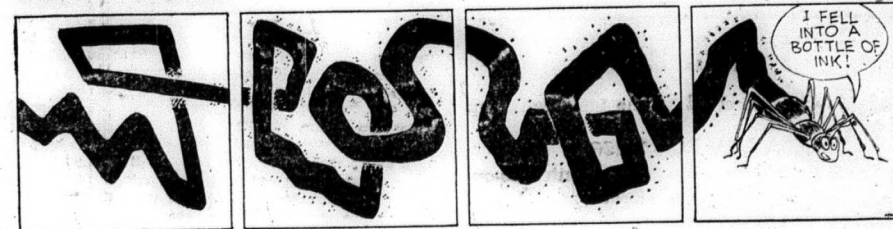

Confidential to Head Over Heels— Listen to your heart! Yes! But don't entirely ignore your head. Make sure you are not reacting to your family's disapproval by becoming more stubbornly determined to have your own way.

You and Jake have much in common. If you take my advice you'll enjoy your carefree friendship with him and simply refuse to get serious for a while. The light will dawn in its own good time.

It Brings Out The Best

There's nothing like an old-fashioned blizzard to put that cocky creature, man, in his place. We're right in the middle of a four-star dandy at the moment. It's been snowing and blowing for 48 hours, with salutary results. The world has become a wild, white wilderness. And the people in it have become human beings.

The creature man in his wisdom believes he has tamed nature. He will admit, under quizzing, that he still doesn't know much about himself. But he is confident that he has brought the natural world to heel.

Normally, he thinks of nature as something subdued, something to be used for recreation, or looking at and saying, "Nice, ain't it?"

It takes a rousing belch from that old trollop, Mother Nature, whether it be in the form of a blizzard, a hurricane, an earthquake or a fire, to set him right back on his primitive heels.

And strangely enough, it is only when nature comes up with some kind of a spectacular that man seems to shed his scale of materialism, get down to his basic virtues, and find out once again what makes the human race go round in ever-diminishing circles.

Ordinarily, the Christian virtues are as easily spotted as the teeth in a hen who is drawing the old-age pension. But when nature gives a vast rumble of laughter at the little fellows, and collapses the facade of creature comforts which are the modern-day fetishes, the old virtues brighten the darkest corner.

Generosity, unselfishness, decency, do-unto-others — all the things to which we pay lip service — suddenly flower when people are getting a good kick in the teeth from old Mother.

When a blizzard is raging, or a hurricane is howling, or a fire is raging, people regain some of those qualities the pioneers are supposed to have had. People who wouldn't pick up the Queen of England, even if she displayed a sign reading, "Buckingham Palace or bust," suddenly start picking up hitch-hikers.

People who ordinarily wouldn't give you the time of day will stop and shove you out of a snowbank. People who wouldn't buy an apple from a Boy Scout will shovel out old ladies' driveways.

And strangest of all, they smile and grin and chortle while they're doing it.

Not only do they revert to humanity. They return to a certain primitive pride in doing battle with the elements.

People who will grumble for hours about a sprinkle of rain that spoils a picnic, turn into giants when the big snow comes. They hump through the drifts. They snort and stamp into work half an hour late, as proud as though they'd just crossed the Sahara, single-handed, without water. They die in their hundreds, frozen grins on their faces, clutching their snow-shovels.

I speak from experience. This morning, my neighbor, with whom I exchange a carefully amiable greeting about every six months, had managed to smash his truck through the three-foot drift in his drive. And there he was when he munched out, grinning like a gargoyle, motor running, to give us a drive to work. And he wasn't practising one-up-manship. He was being a good neighbor.

Got to work, and found that one chap had driven through the storm for four-and-a-half hours to make it on time. He was slit-eyed, unshaven, and something of a hero, for perhaps the first time in his life.

I hate to suggest it, in case old Mother N. is listening, but perhaps we need a few more blizzards, earthquakes, holocausts and hurricanes. They work a lot better than nationally advertised B otherhood Weeks.

Come spread your wings in a Falcon
(You'll fly first class on Economy fare!)

Right from your first glance you can tell Falcon's styling has taken on a new sleekness. It's low, lean, sporty, with a long hooded Mustang look.

And right from your first trip, you'll realize that's not the only change! Falcon has a new handling "feel" . . . thanks to its new wider track. The ride is smoother and quieter as well . . . the longer wheelbase and new front torque boxes see to that.

When you take over the controls, you'll appreciate Falcon's new driving conveniences. A suspended accelerator pedal, reversible keys, keyless locking, an outside rearview mirror and lighted selector quadrant on the optional 3-speed dual-range Cruise-O-Matic are all new on Falcon. And your passengers will find Falcon much more roomy, with more hip room, more shoulder room and more knee room under the "swept-away" instrument panel.

But with all this new styling, new handling ease and extra roominess, Falcon is as thrifty as ever. The standard Six is tops in economy. And there's an optional 120-hp Six or 200-hp V-8, if you like even more lively performance. See your Ford Dealer. Ask him about the Falcon luxury at economy fares. . . you'll be amazed at the savings you'll make!

Read the notes for each meeting carefully.

Hastings Farm Clinic No. 1—Mastitis Workshop, Community Service Building, Front St., Stirling, Friday, February 25th, 10:00 a.m.—4:00 p.m.

This program is conducted by Dr. Neeley and other staff members from the Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph. So far, over 6,000 farmers have attended these sessions. In Hastings County we want 100 men to make this a "top priority" meeting.

Mastitis, as any dairyman knows, is a very complex and often somewhat mysterious disease. A recent survey in Ontario has revealed that over 50 per cent. of the cows have mastitis in some form. The purpose of the Workshop is to illustrate the step-by-step procedures that are practical and effective in controlling mastitis.

Those who attend the Workshop will be shown by demonstrations, films and other means just what is involved in controlling this very costly disease. The discussions cover all facets of the disease including sanitation, treatment, and control.

The Workshop explains in detail the "whys" of control and by so doing, it justifies the steps that can be taken to control mastitis on a herd basis.

The Ontario Mastitis Control Policy is outlined and dairymen who have enrolled in the programme are encouraged to attend the Workshop.

Dairyman who wish to attend a Workshop may get further information by contacting the Stirling office.

MR. FINDLAY HARRIS RETIRES FROM O.S.D.

On Thursday evening, December 16th, members of the O. S. D. staff gathered in the auditorium of the Junior School to honour a senior member of the organization on his retirement.

Mr. Findlay Harris, who joined the O.S.D. staff almost twenty-one years ago, was taken completely by surprise when he entered the room and was cheerfully greeted by about forty well-wishers. Mrs. Harris was also on the scene to her husband's surprise and the two of them circulated among the group to exchange greetings and to receive the good wishes of those present. After a very pleasant social hour of games and visiting, the group was called to order by Mr. A.J. Clare, Dean of Residence, chairman for the evening and a number of presentations were made to Mr. Harris.

Miss MacKenzie on behalf of those assembled presented a birthday cake recognizing Mr. Harris forthcoming birthday anniversary, and his official retirement date. Next a beautiful leather upholstered lazy-boy chair was presented to the guest of honour. Mr. Harris assumed the chair, while Mr. Moore made the presentation address on behalf of the staff and wished him a long and happy retirement.

Mr. Demeza and Mr. Clare extended their congratulations to Mr. Harris and commented on the many contributions made by him during his twenty years as supervisor to the boys at O.S.D. Sincere good wishes for a long and happy retirement were expressed on behalf of the group.

Special guest, Mr. W. J. Morrison, former Superintendent of this school and the official responsible for recruiting Mr. Harris to the staff commended him for his long service and wished him well in the future.

Mr. Harris expressed a sincere thanks to all concerned and told of his thorough enjoyment of the time spent at O.S.D. and his work with the students.

After the presentation the ladies of the staff served a delicious lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee to end a most enjoyable evening.

Mr. Harris now joins the distinguished society of retired O.S.D. staff members. With him go the good wishes of his many friends at the retirement.

Mr. Harris now joins the distinguished society of retired O.S.D. staff members. With him go the good wishes of his many friends at the

Mr. Findlay Harris, who joined the O.S.D. staff almost twenty-one years ago, was taken completely by surprise when he entered the room and was cheerfully greeted by about forty well-wishers. Mrs. Harris was also on the scene to her husband's surprise and the two of them circulated among the group to exchange greetings and to receive the good wishes of those present. After a very pleasant social hour of games and visiting, the group was called to order by Mr. A.J. Clare, Dean of Residence, chairman for the evening and a number of presentations were made to Mr. Harris.

topic "Serving Others" was in the form of a discussion, everyone taking part.

Readings were given by Mesdames Chambers, Wood, Killengbeck, McCann and Donly.

Mrs. Wood closed with prayer and a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Diary of a Vagabond by Dorothy Barker

How an Island Got Its Name

Quite often the subject for a column develops from a chance remark. This one owes its origin to the curiosity of a distant relative in England. At a tea party last summer, while juggling a cup of brew, he asked the guest of honor who happened to be my sister-in-law, if she ever visited Halifax. When told that such a trip was planned for later in the season he asked her if she would get some information for him about a gentleman whose name dangles on his family tree.

When I heard of her interest in untangling details about the McNabs of Brandolbane, Perthshire, who had settled in Nova Scotia, I knew just where to start our search. Tourist bureaux operated by the various provinces are a fund of information. Upon the advice of John McCormack of the Nova Scotia Tourist Bureau, the story of Peter McNab started for us in archives housed in a building on Dalhousie University campus.

Our special interest soon turned to an island, in the soil of which lie the McNabs. It was first called Cornwallis Island, named by the great British General Charles Cornwallis for his brother, who later became Archbishop of Canterbury. In 1749, the Cornwallis family sold the island through their agent, Joseph Peters, Deputy Post or Port Master of Nova Scotia, to the first Peter McNab.

At this point in our research the tale of shipwreck, rum running, pirates and gay society functions on, or near, the island began to unfold making it so alluring there was only one thing to do, that was to visit the island.

Through the Nova Scotia Tourist Bureau a tug was chartered and our small band of curious tourists accompanied by Mr. McCormack traveled down the eastern end of Halifax Sound and tied up at a crumbling old dock on the island. From there we had to find our way to the cemetery and three forts we knew existed at the eastern-most tip of the island.

We were fortunate in having one of the residents in the small settlement of homes offer us a lift in his jeep. Otherwise we would have had to tramp the rugged trail more than two miles on foot.

I can appreciate why the Nova Scotia Government, which now owns only part, would like to obtain title to the entire island. Plans have been considered, or maybe I should say suggested, to make the island a tourist paradise. Well it might be for it has all the ingredients of a fascinating holiday spot. The crumbling old forts, which by the way were actually used as defence for the eastern gap in two world wars, could be reclaimed and nearby there is beautiful Maugher's Beach.

Red Sails in the Sunset

On that sunny day we climbed the ramparts and took a rubbing of the details on Peter McNab's tombstone for the English relatives, we also watched a small fleet of tiny boats with bright coloured sails which were beached and waiting for the incoming tide to get them off again. These were crewed by junior members of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Club on a 'learners voyage'. Watching them it didn't take too much imagination to picture Joshua Maugher, a distiller and also victualer to the Royal Navy in 1749, taking advantage of his position and the site to trade with the troops at Louisbourg. Rum, history reports, sold there for nine pence per gallon and aroused the suspicions of Cornwallis to the point where he decided he should 'cancel Mr. Maugher's island privileges'.

Peter McNab had a distinguished political career and is one of the many interesting figures in the early history of Halifax.

TRINITY U.C.W.

Unit Two of Trinity U.C.W. met at the home of Mrs. K. Broad for their February meeting. The president, Mrs. B. White, conducted the meeting which opened with a hymn and prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting and the correspondence were read by Miss O. Ashe. The roll call showed eleven members present. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. K. Broad. The members were reminded of the following events. Noon luncheon, March 1st.; dinner for Presbytery members, March 29th.; spring tea, April 21st.; and a rummage sale, April 23rd. Mrs. I. Hughes volunteered to look after the baby sitting service at the church for the month of March.

The worship service, conducted by Mrs. J. McGowan, had as its theme "Love" and included Scripture quotations, a meditation, a poem and prayer.

The programme was in charge of Mrs. H. Pigden, who gave a reading on the origin of St. Valentine's Day. Mrs. Carl Trotter read an article on "Brazil". Mrs. H. Pigden read a story about "Maple Sugar Time", and closed with the story of the three Florence Nightingale Communion Sets. A contest, suitable for Valentine's Day, was won by Mrs. J. McGowan. Mrs. D. Pigden expressed the thanks of the group to the hostess and her helpers and a social half hour followed.

The Quiet Canadians

Among the many paradoxes of the Vietnam war, none was more mystifying this week than the unexplained reluctance of Canada to attempt to move the conflict from the jungle to the conference table.

Canada's failure to act was doubly strange because as a member of the International Control Commission which had been given the job of truce-watching in Vietnam by the 1954 Geneva Conference, this country is one of three nations having a recognized legal right to speak out on the war.

Along with neutralist India and Communist Poland, Canada accepted the Geneva Conference request to maintain observers in Vietnam when that country was partitioned after the French withdrawal.

The ICC grew increasingly helpless as the Communist-led National Liberation Front stepped up its guerrilla war in South Vietnam, and the U.S. reacted with material and military aid.

External Affairs Minister Martin, who two years ago tried to get Japan to take over Canada's role, assured Parliament recently that Canada would stay on with the truce commission.

But because of Prime Minister Pearson's reluctance to even discuss the Vietnam conflict, there has been a growing suspicion that Ottawa would not make any moves which had not first been cleared with Washington.

As prime minister, Mr. Pearson's preoccupation with domestic politics has isolated him from the kind of international diplomacy at which he showed such daring in the 1956 Suez crisis.

Also unexplained has been President Johnson's famous letter to Ottawa of last summer. Did Mr. Johnson ask Canada to send troops to Vietnam or did he not? If he did, it would indicate the U.S. expected Canada to give Washington its full backing despite this country's commitment to the Vietnam truce commission.

But because the President refuses to give Mr. Pearson permission to make the letter public, it is doubtful if we will ever know what it contained.

It is recognized around the world that it will take another Geneva conference to extricate the U.S. from Vietnam. Why then has Canada not taken the lead to get one going?

The explanation is either that behind-the-scenes efforts are already being made in this direction, or that Mr. Pearson has decided the problem is too critical to Ottawa-Washington relations for Canada to dabble in.

The North Vietnamese, backed up solidly by China and reluctantly by the Soviet Union, have said that U.S. troops will have to get out of Vietnam before talks can begin. They've added that the U.S. would then have to sit down with the National Liberation Front — the Viet Cong — to work out peace terms.

The U.S., on the other hand, contends that the negotiations would have to be between two entirely different parties — the South Vietnamese government in Saigon and the North Vietnamese regime in Hanoi.

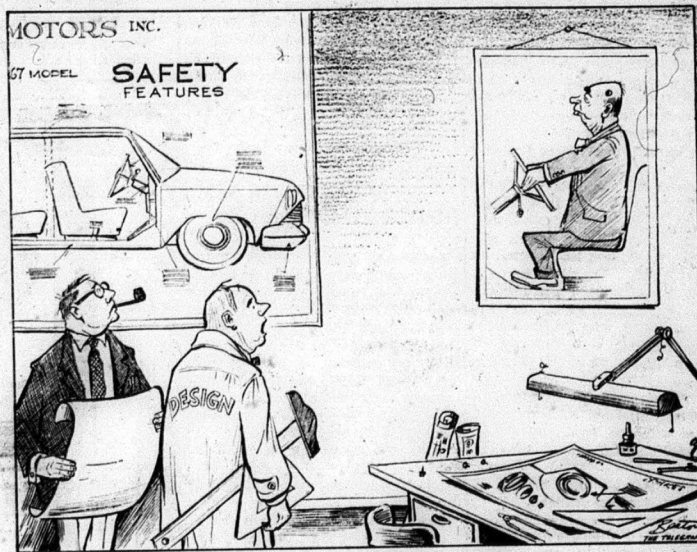

The Communists view the conflict as an undeclared war between the U.S. and the people of South Vietnam (the Viet Cong). The Americans view it as an invasion of South Vietnam by the Hanoi regime in the north.

Following the Honolulu conference between President Johnson and Saigon Premier N. C. Ky (rhymes with he), the U.S. appeared to have at last settled on a basic strategy to maintain maximum pressure without escalating the war beyond recovery.

The main elements of the strategy are to try to recover the three-quarters of South Vietnam now controlled by the Communists, but to avoid any troop incursions into North Vietnam. Such super-escalation would bring the Chinese Army marching into the Indochina deltas.

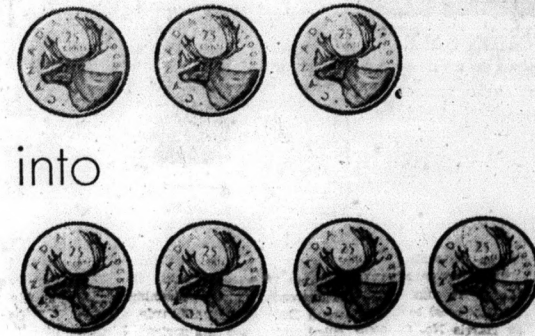

The hope is that a war of attrition — and time — will eventually convince the Communists that they cannot win a military victory in the south.

The U.S. already appears resigned to being unable to win military victory. The chorus of rising dissent at home will eventually make it politically safer for President Johnson to negotiate a settlement, providing he can find some way of presenting it to the American public as a settlement, and not a sell-out.
